Ten-Day Recess For Wickersham Commission Fails

COMMENT UPON FINDINGS GUARDED

Set To Work In Preparing Report To Be Given To Congress And Nation

WASHINGTON, Nov. 24.—President Hoover's law enforcement commission, whose findings on prohibition are eagerly awaited by vets and drys alike, reconvened today after a ten-day recess in which the 11 members sought to reconcile their conflicting views on Volsteadism.

If any progress was made during the ten days of contemplation and reflection it was not visible to observers, nor was it indicated by the guarded comment of the members.

Are Still Split.

The commission was split then and it was still split today, with the members of congress only a week away and President Hoover busily engaged in drafting his annual message. Mr. Hoover had hoped to have the guiding influence of a report from the commission before writing the prohibition section of his message but apparently this is not to be.

Racketeering and lawlessness in general will come in for drastic treatment in the presidential message, but on the moot question of what is to be done about prohibition Mr. Hoover probably will prefer to await the report—or reports—of the Wickersham commission. It, or they, may be expected around January 1, it is said.

All indications continue to point to more than one report from the commission on prohibition. Several of the members are known to favor real modification of the Volstead act, several others are known to be violently opposed to any such recommendation. Several others are said to be uncertain as to whether it lies within the province of the commission to recommend changes in the laws.

These latter advance the theory that the commission was not appointed for the extra legislative duty of determining upon the wisdom or unwisdom of specific laws but only to study and recommend how existing laws can better be enforced.

Back at Work.

In any event, the commission went back to work today as a body to tackle the job anew.

One proposal, compromising in nature, has been considerably discussed within the commission. Stripped of non-essentials, it is simply that the commission avoid at this time any direct commitment as to whether prohibition can or cannot be enforced, or whether the Volstead act is a practicable piece of legislation.

Instead of passing yes-or-no judgments.

WILL USE METHOD HERE IN FUTURE

For the first time in police history here, if not elsewhere, an airplane was used Sunday to apprehend a "hit and run" motorist and according to announcement by state highway and state police today, an airplane is to be used here in the pursuit of criminals, through the co-operation of Roy Bradford.

The airplane came into play here after an automobile, containing two men, it is reported, sideswiped the automobile of David Curtice, R. D. 1, Edenburg, at Harbor bridge.

Curtice received a compound fracture of the wrist. Word was telephoned to the state highway police here. They answered the alarm and ascertained that the two young men abandoned the automobile in the vicinity of the Bradford air field.

The automobile was ordered towed to New Castle and later was found to have been stolen from Pittsburgh.

As soon as Bradford heard of the crash he offered the use of a plane and with Pilot Meuser at the "stick" and State Highway Patrolman Baxter in the plane it took to the air.

The ground was scanned thoroughly but due to elapsed time the two young occupants of the "hit and run" car had escaped.

Today Policeman Hennecheck of the state police and also the highway police said they had accepted the use of the plane in future criminal work here.

CRUEL HUSBAND SLAIN BY BULLET

Brother Of Distressed Married Woman Fires Fatal Shot—Face Electric Chair

By E. L. RAWLEY,

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 24.—Remorse and bitterness gripped two inmates of the county prison today—a pious-faced woman and her ashen-faced brother—while over both loomed the shadow of the electric chair. The accused pair, Mrs. Clara Grace Prophet, attractive 32-year old church worker, and Harold Williams, 25, her huckster brother have admitted killing the woman's husband, William F. Prophet, 49-year old salesman and choir singer.

The woman, maddened by eight years of unhappy married life, and her brother tempted by a $500 bribe, arranged and executed prophet's murder, police said they admitted. The woman plotted in order that she might be freed of taunting and quarreling, and the man in order that he might obtain a share of the $3,000 insurance policy carried by the slain man.

Confessions Signed
Each signed a confession, police said, that brought the spectre of the electric chair to the foreground. Mrs. Prophet, an ex-tenographer and president of the Foreign Mission society of the Logan Methodist Episcopal church, admitted investigation of the crime. The brother, a huckster-farmer from Warren, Pa., in nearby Berks county, confessed in firing the fatal shot. Both were jointly charged with the crime and with conspiracy to commit it.

They were given a hearing early today and committed to jail without bail pending the trial expected to take place this week.

"I hated him. He was cruel. Nothing I could do was ever right. He nagged me always," the woman sobbed.

Woman Breaks Down
Calmly after hours of grilling she admitted the crime, explaining on two previous occasions her plans had gone awry. However, the third time the crime was carried out almost to the precise minute set on Saturday morning about 4:30 a. m.

At that hour, William, the meek-appearing brother, entered their home in North Philadelphia with the keys given him and, creeping in to their bedroom on the second floor, killed Prophet with a single shot. Awakened by the huckster's entrance, however, Prophet put up a struggle with his slayer, causing the accidental discharge of the pistol before he was clubbed and shot to death. Mrs. Prophet then ran screaming to the street and called a taxicab while her brother escaped.

Three children, Warren, six, Billy, five, and Ruth, four, were left fatherless by the crime.

Worry over "distressed finances," and the conviction that Prophet was giving his sister a "raw deal" caused him to participate in the crime, William said.

(International News Service)
CHICAGO, Nov. 24.—With the death today of a third young woman victim, city and county authorities pressed a vigorous man hunt for eight members of a juvenile bandit gang who raided the Summit roadhouse of Henry Goetz, killing three women and seriously wounding three men in a murderous cross-fire of shotgun and revolver slugs.

Miss Mary Ganey, 38, owner of a beauty shop died early today of the wounds suffered when the youthful gunmen opened fire in a darkened dining room of the roadhouse Sunday morning as Police Lieutenant James Micus drew his pistol in an attempt to thwart the gang's robbery attempt. Mary Brining, 22, entertainer, and Alice Ward, 22, a patron were killed instantly.

One or more of the young bandits was wounded, police are convinced as Lieutenant Micus fired upon them with his revolver. The leader of the gang was described as a youth or not more than 17 years old.

(BULLETIN)
(International News Service)
PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 24.—The conviction and sentencing of Mrs. Irene Schroeder and Glenn Dague, convicted in the Lawrence county court and sentenced to death in the electric chair, were affirmed today by the Supreme Court.

Philadelphia, Nov. 24.—Nerved by the beckoning force of Pennsylvania's Supreme Court, the grim shadow of the death chair at Rockview Penitentiary today edged a bit closer to Irene Schroeder, flamboyant and phlegmatic, in her cell in the Lawrence county jail at New Castle.

Fair And Impartial Trial
Deciding that Irene and her partner-in-crime, W. Glenn Dague, had had a fair and impartial trial, the State's highest tribunal closed another avenue of escape from the death sentence, imposed for the slaying of Corporal Brady Paul of the State Highway Patrol, when the court denied the couple a new trial.

The decision was rendered in the staid, dignified atmosphere of Pennsylvania's high court—a far cry from the Devil-may-care path of crime trodden by the pudgy blonde and her debonair lover through West Virginia and Pennsylvania slightly less than a year ago as they climbed—or fell—from pilfering to robbery and then to "the big thing"—murder.

Sentenced To Death
Irene and Dague were convicted and sentenced to death in Lawrence county court at New Castle during the March term. A motion for a new trial was denied by Judge R. L. Hildebrand who presided at the separate trials of the couple and

Throng Shares Mission Dinner

Over Two Hundred Enjoy Thanksgiving Feast On Saturday Evening

GIVEN ANNUALLY AS CHILDREN'S TREAT

Expectations of City Rescue Mission officers were exceeded Saturday evening when more than 200 boys and girls, the greater part of them scholars at the mission's Sunday school classes, turned out for the annual Thanksgiving dinner treat in the mission hall, South Mercer street.

The feast—a chicken dinner at that—is sponsored every year at Thanksgiving time, and is handled by a staff of capable mission friends who volunteer their services.

Exactly 36 chickens were consumed by the hungry host and Superintendent Ben J. Watkins reports the dinner kept the waiters busy. During intermission was asked on the bountiful feast by W. H. Reck just before the group sat down to dinner.

Assisting Mrs. Grace Steinbrink who officiated as generalissimo during the serving, were Mrs. Sadie Black, Mrs. H. P. Thompson, Mrs. Ed Rehill, Mrs. Sadie McClouds, Mrs. Zimmerman, Mrs. Eva Leasure, Mrs. M. Palmer, Mrs. Mary Palmer, Mrs. Mary Marshall, Mrs. B. J. Watkins, Mrs. Flora Watt, Mrs. James White, Mrs. A. G. Zahner and Miss Mabel Wimer.

Volunteering to aid the ladies were James White, John Bonham, Roy Anderson, Ed Kelly, T. J. Hinkson, W. H. Reck and the superintendent, B. J. Watkins.

Children for the affair were generously donated by the kind friends as well as money by which additional supplies were purchased. To the donors the mission board extends its sincere thanks and appreciation.

Decorated attractively for the occasion, the mission hall on Saturday presented a happy scene familiar to it on so many occasions. The dinner of Saturday, however, will probably go down as the happiest and most successful treat.

Immediately after the children had been served, the mission provided a score of deserving transients with their supper.

Pile Sufferers

End Your Misery Without Salves or Cutting

External treatments cannot permanently end Piles. Nor does cutting remove the cause.

The cause is internal—bad circulation of the blood in the lower bowel. The veins are flabby—the bowel walls weak—the parts almost dead. To quickly and safely cure your piles, use an internal medicine must be used to heal and strengthen the affected parts.

Dr. J. S. Leonard, a specialist, after years of study discovered a real internal Pile remedy. He named his prescription HEM-ROID, and prescribed it for 1000 patients, with the marvelous record of success in 960 cases, and then decided every Pile sufferer should be able to get HEM-ROID from their own druggist.

Don't waste time on external remedies or think of the pain and expense of an operation until you have tried HEM-ROID. McKee's or McKee's of New Castle, Pa., will supply you and guarantee money-back if it does not end all Pile misery.

WATERWAYS DELEGATES AT ST. LOUIS

Chamber of Commerce, prepared a brief for presentation to the convention in which Moore points out that the proposed canal, connecting the Ohio river with Lake Erie, is not only of national but of international scope as well.

Should the canal eventually be constructed, the brief declares, it would provide facilities for efficient shipping of 50,000,000 tons of industrial commodities annually.

District Represented. Eighty business and industrial leaders from the Beaver, Mahoning and Shenango valleys in western Pennsylvania and eastern Ohio also were present today when the convention opened. They were headed by Thomas J. Bray, retired steel magnate, who was head of the Republic Iron and Steel Company for 16 years and who now holds the post of president of the Beaver, Mahoning and Shenango Rivers Improvement Association.

While the definite attitude of this group was not public knowledge, Pittsburgh leaders doubted whether the delegation would support Pittsburgh's fight for a through canal from the Ohio to the Great Lakes.

Although Pittsburgh and Youngstown may not agree on the length of the canal, indications were that the delegations from the two steel and industrial cities would work as a unit in insisting on the canalization of the Beaver, Mahoning and Shenango rivers. The Pittsburgh delegation, in addition, is expected to carry its fight to the convention floor for endorsement of the entire Ohio river-Lake Erie project.

Convention sessions were to be featured tonight by a banquet at which Secretary of War Patrick Hurley was to address the delegates with "Waterways" as his theme.

You're the JUDGE

Mr. Stipson was getting tired of his home and wanted to sell it. He cast about for a likely purchaser and at last did find one. The bargain was struck, a cash payment was made and a note for an unpaid balance of $2,000 was made out, falling due two years hence with the accrued interest.

Several months before the note became due Mr. Stipson came to the buyer and told him that if he, the buyer, would pay Stipson only $1,850 within thirty days Stipson would give him a receipt in full and also cancel the accrued interest. The buyer said he would think it over, but about a week before the thirty days had expired he went to Stipson with a certified check for $1,850. But Stipson wasn't around. Telephone calls also failed to bring him around and all that week there was no reaching him.

The fact was that Stipson had sold the note without telling the buyer of the house about it. When the buyer found it out he was deeply incensed and felt that he had been damaged by Stipson. He therefore filed suit for damages for the sum he would have been able to save had Stipson come through with the agreement.

had been anticipated. It warmed up over Sunday and indications this morning pointed to another nice day. The weather man is probably waiting until Thanksgiving Day to give us some nasty weather.

Pa New notes that the little stream which runs through the dip parallel to Park avenue has almost dried up entirely. There has always been water running through the hollow in the driest weather, which indicates how dry things are at the present time.

City street department employees have been busy the past week scraping local streets and getting them ready for winter. Most dirt streets are now in good shape and will probably continue to be in fair condition through the winter, due to the long dry spell.

Local deer hunters who are preparing to enter the woods the last of the week, when the deer season starts, are warned that does do not have anything red about their heads or bodies. Things with red on them are hunters. Some of them may have big ears and long noses but that doesn't make them deer. Caution should be used by all hunters and moving bushes should not be fired at.

A man hauled a very large trunk down East North street this morning on a very small wagon. The wagon served the purpose alright and the trunk got to its destination without any spills.

At the post office, as parcel post patrons will find out, they've inaugurated a scheme entirely new. Up until a few days ago, clerks applied the stamps to packages after weighing them. ## THE GRAB BAG

November 24, 1930.

Among the thousand or more delegates expected to attend the annual blue-ribbon waterways affair are Secretary of War Patrick J. Hurley, two major-generals, two senators, four governors and nine congressmen, a little legislature in itself.

Delegates to the convention will urge the completion of the authorized inland waterway program in five years. This would involve the spending of $500,000,000 at the rate of a hundred million dollars a year.

The adoption of the views of the association by congress and the consequent $100,000,000 appropriation in 1931 would provide a very practical relief for the unemployment situation, delegates to the convention point out. This view was amplified by Lachlan Macleay, executive secretary of the association, who said, "Application of the five-year construction plan to all Mississippi valley channels projects would be of inestimable value in relieving unemployment and giving industry and agriculture the prompt relief from high freight rates which they need to prosper."

"It would mean the spending of $100,000,000 a year for five years in a constructive enterprise which would confer inestimable benefits both now and in the future upon every economic interest in middle America."

More than six hundred reservations for delegates representing the business, agricultural and political interests of the valley states were reported this morning, and more than one thousand delegates were expected to be on hand when the meeting got down to business.

Thomas J. Bray, former head of the Republic Iron and Steel Company, was at the head of a large delegation expected from western Pennsylvania and eastern Ohio.

Governor Arthur J. Waver of Nebraska, Major General Lytle Brown, chief of army engineers, were scheduled to speak during the morning program. Speakers listed for the afternoon session were Roy Miller of Corpus Christi, Tex., president of the Inter-Coastal Canal Association; Congressman Edwin L. Davis of Tennessee; C. C. Webber, Minneapolis, president of the Upper Mississippi Valley Barge Line Company; Frank Purnell, president of the Youngstown Sheet and Tube Company, and Major General T. Q. Ashburn, president of the board of the Inland Waterways Corporation.

LAW COMMISSION IS BACK AT WORK ON REPORT DRAFT

ment on the matter, the commission could simply set forth that prohibition is deserving of further trial, say five years, for example, under the new enforcement set-up of the department of justice, with the suggestion that if at the end of such a trial period conditions are not improved then congress and the country should give serious thought to modification.

The supporters of this idea point out that President Hoover could favorably recommend such a report to congress. He himself has said that prohibition "is a noble experiment" and one "that must be worked out constructively."

May Appease Drys. Moreover, such a report from the Wickersham commission probably would appease the drys, who are already publicly talking of third party in 1932 if both parties flit with modification in platform or candidates. The wets might grumble and charge the commission with "straddling" and ducking the issue, but at the same time there would be something in the nature of promise of future relief at the end of a definite trial period. Most wets do not believe prohibition can be enforced anyway, whether tried for five years or fifty, and might be persuaded to support such a report from the commission.

Incidentally, such a trial period as suggested would carry over the Presidential election in 1932, which would be pleasing to a large number of wavering statesmen in senate and house.

If there is to be such a thing as a unanimous report from the commission, and many believe it to be impossible, it probably will be based upon some such compromise as outlined above. No report, positive or negative, or modification, can command United States support from the commission at this time, according to all indications.

The first sermon of a series on "Christ, the Healer" was presented Sunday morning by Rev. John H. Kellner, pastor of the First Pentecostal church.

SUPREME COURT REFUSES PLEA OF IRENE AND DAGUE

the appeal to the State Supreme Court followed. Arguments were heard by the court at Pittsburgh.

A third member of the bandit party—Tom Crawford, Irene's brother—has successfully eluded capture since Paul was shot down while attempting to frustrate the trio's escape from a chain store holdup at Butler.

Last Chance For New Trial Irene Schroeder's and Walter Glenn Dague's last chance for a new trial for the murder of Corporal Brady Paul was dissipated today when the Pennsylvania Supreme Court affirmed the findings of the Lawrence County Court. By its decision the Supreme Court found that the verdict of murder in the first degree with the death penalty was supported by the weight of the evidence, that the presiding judge, Judge R. Lawrence Hildebrand had not erred in any of his rulings, and that there was no legal reason why the two should not die in the electric chair.

With the decision of the Supreme Court filed, it now becomes necessary for Governor John S. Fisher to designate what Monday morning the Gun Girl and her paramour will walk through the heavy door of the Rockwell Death House, there to give their lives in expiation of the crime for which they were convicted.

To Appeal to Pardon Board Steps will be taken immediately to get the case before the Pennsylvania Pardon Board. It is extremely doubtful that the appeal can be prepared and advertised in time to get it before the December meeting of the board and as this is the last meeting of the present Pardon Board, it will probably lie over until January.

Should Governor Fisher set a date late in December for the execution, the appeal would be considered in the light of a supercilious and the date of the execution advanced. The appeal for executive clemency would then go before Governor Gifford Pinchot who assumes office on January 20, 1931.

Told of the decision of the Supreme Court today, Irene Schroeder and Walter Glenn Dague displayed little interest. They met the news with the same iron front of indifference that marked them on the long ride from Arizona, at the trial, and when they were sentenced to die.

Justice Has Been Done "The decision of the Supreme Court concludes our part in the case," said District Attorney John S. Powers today. "We felt at the time of the verdict that justice had been done and the decision of the higher court corroborates it. The only function of the district attorney was to represent the commonwealth in the matter, the question of guilt or innocence resting upon the jury. We believe the case was fairly tried and that justice has been done."

The decision of the Supreme Court was not unexpected. In the trial of the case care was taken to avoid any reversible errors and no case in the history of Lawrence County courts has been tried more efficiently and carefully.

Little more than a month is lacking to make the date of the crime one year away. On December 27, 1929, Corporal Brady Paul was shot to death and Patrolman Moore wounded on the Butler road by Irene Schroeder and Walter Glenn Dague.

Tom Crawford, a brother of Irene was with the party but escaped and has since kept away from the authorities.

The bandits were captured near Phoenix, Arizona early in January and were returned to New Castle for trial. They were tried in the March term of court, convicted of murder in the first degree with the death penalty, applied for a new trial, were refused and sentenced to death and in October appealed to the Supreme Court. The decision today is in answer to that appeal.

May Use Cameras In Liquor Raids

(International News Service)

RENOVO, Pa., Nov. 24.—Cameras may become standard equipment for prohibition agents, if a practice inaugurated here stands the test of the courts.

In a raid on the Binder brewery here, agents led by Deputy Prohibition Administrator J. O. Loos took photographs of the interior of the building for presentation in court as a means of proving illegal manufacture of liquor was carried on in the building.

The raiders battered at doors reported to have been bolstered with concrete and steel for two hours before they gained entrance to the building.

County Detective Makes Arrests

Several Alleged Disorderly Houses Are Visited By Officers

Headed by County Detective Peck Lee, city and state officers and constables cleared out some alleged disorderly houses in the Youngstown Hill district Saturday night. The first place visited was that of Clarence Phennney at 405 Sampson St. Here the county detective claims that the proprietor destroyed some liquor before the raid was completed. Phennney was charged with conducting a disorderly house and paid a fine of $25 and costs before Alderman Walter T. Hamilton.

Three visitors paid fines of $10 each.

The next place to fall was that of Eugene Hoover back of State St. One visitor was found. Hoover paid a fine of $25 and costs before Hamilton and the visitor paid a fine of $10.

Another house was visited but nothing was found. The city and county officers are determined to clean up a number of places along the highway in the vicinity of Scotland lane. It is not believed he is seriously injured.

State highway patrolmen here stated today that George Petrilli, Ellwood City, had reported to them last night that while he was operating on route 442 he saw a man walking along the highway.

In passing the man, Petrilli said the glass in his rear right window broke and the car was stopped. They got out, searched and could not find the man they had seen walking.

Later, another motorist reported he had taken a man to the New Castle hospital, who claimed he had been struck by an automobile, knocking him into a ditch.

Wild Goose Is Killed By Engine

(International News Service)

JERSEY SHORE, Pa., Nov. 24.—A new method of duck hunting has been perfected here.

And while it may be more expensive, it's much more satisfactory than sitting in a blind in the chilly dawn—take it from A. J. Pero, road foreman of engines for the New York Central railroad here.

Pero likes wild duck. But this year he has no hunting license and little time to pursue them. And the sight of large flocks of birds, just out of gun range in this section made his fingers itch for a trigger. But work was pressing and Pero abandoned the hunting idea.

He came home one evening, alighted from the train and walked up to inspect the engine. That night Pero had wild duck for dinner.

On the tender of the locomotive lay a 15-pound goose. It had been struck by the pilot of the engine while flying low and in falling had been caught on the tender. Pero called a game warden, found the bird was rightfully and legally his and went home content.

Not Seriously Hurt When Hit By Auto

Joseph di Angelo, an elderly gentleman, residing in the vicinity of the New Castle-New Bedford highway, it is reported, was injured last night by an auto while walking along the highway in the vicinity of Scotland lane. It is not believed he is seriously injured.

State highway patrolmen here stated today that George Petrilli, Ellwood City, had reported to them last night that while he was operating on route 442 he saw a man walking along the highway.

HAVE COLOR IN CHEEKS

If your skin is yellow—complexion pallid—tongue coated—appetite poor—you have a bad taste in your mouth—a lazy, no-good feeling—you should try Olive Tablets.

Dr. Edwards Olive Tablets—a substitute for calomel—were prepared by Dr. Edwards after 20 years of study. Olive Tablets are a purely vegetable compound. Know them by their olive color.

To have a clear, pink skin, bright eyes, no pimples, a feeling of buoyancy like childhood days, you must get at the cause.

Dr. Edwards Olive Tablets act on the liver and bowels like calomel—yet have no dangerous after effects. They start the bile and help overcome constipation. Take nightly and note the pleasing results. Millions of boxes sold yearly. 15c, 30c, 60c.

THE REAPPORTIONMENT

ANY one who had hoped that a minimum of politics would be played in the approaching short and final session of the seventy-first congress reckoned without the provocative question of reapportionment of representation in the house of representatives, and any one who had hoped that the passage last winter of a law authorizing the reapportionment would end the 10 years' delay in carrying out that constitutional mandate reckoned without the short session of congress.

The mere fact that congress settled the whole question at its last session and that the public has since believed that congress really intended to obey the law, does not now prevent congressmen from conspiring and threatening to block the whole proceeding.

These threats come from the states which, because others have forged ahead of them in population, will lose one or more representatives through reapportionment. Is it not enough that congress for 10 years has violated the constitutional guarantee of equal representation?

The lower branch of congress is already too large and unwieldy, but notwithstanding that fact certain congressmen propose to increase its membership so that no states will lose members through reapportionment. To gain this end they must persuade congress to amend the law which was passed last session and which does not increase the total number of representatives, although giving some states more and others fewer. That law was the culmination of a decade of log-rolling and peanut politics. To reopen the debate will mean further delay for reapportionment and, perhaps, a still more widely and inefficient congress.

THE HOLIDAYS

This genial, colorful season of man's calendar is so rich in possibilities that there scarcely is time enough to realize them.

For weeks the approach of Christmas Day is watched, the advent becoming fast and faster as the last few days rush by. Then as the gay litter of the festival is swept away thoughts turn to the passing of the year and the coming of new opportunity.

That week between two events of significance is a week out of life. It is the time when parties make long nights and short days, a period for reaction, a space wherein the world is loosing the ties of the months that are gone and planning a new year of activity and aspiration. Unconsciously men see in the revolution of the seasons an analogy with life itself and the eternal sentiment of the dying and the new-born colors the hours and challenges the thoughts.

Birthdays are hard to identify clearly, but the procession of Christmases and New Year days stretches memorably away with a distinctness no other of the year's recurring events can match.

After the mellowness of Christmas, reflection on the passing time. After the munificence of the festival the dedication to new labors. After the sweet leisure and devotion of the nativity, the girding for the tasks of life. Resolution follows relaxation, and the two moods complement each other, and give that necessary contrast which spells conviction.

It is a time when humanity permits its heart to speak; it opens wide the door to high purpose. It is the twilight time when men find opportunity to gaze within and strike a moral balance which, hopefully may serve the New Year.

UNCLE SAM'S WHEAT SURPLUS

During the last few days the Federal Farm Board has bought some 10,000,000 additional bushels of wheat to be held by way of stabilizing the market.

Chairman Legge says the Farm Board will continue to buy as long as this procedure will protect domestic prices against the demoralization of the glutted world market situation.

Mr. Legge admits that the government now holds at least 70,000,000 bushels of wheat. Some who have kept pretty close track of the Farm Board's operations believe the total is nearer to a round hundred million bushels.

The Farm Board policy becomes more paternalistic with every bushel bought and held.

The wheat growers have been prodigal sons. In the face of an increasingly glutted market they have continued to raise bumper crops of wheat. Instead of COASTING after one or two big seasons, they have speeded up the productive machinery, adding annual millions of bushels to an existent and embarrassing surplus.

When there is too much of anything, the indicated policy is to relax production. Until the wheat growers accept this fact, they will suffer, and Uncle Sam can't go on forever buying surplus wheat.

Industry never had such a subsidy as the Farm Board is now trying to give the wheat growers. In Utopia the wheat growers would now take a year off, play golf and go to the movies while the rest of us were eating the wheat out of the bursting bins. But Utopia is not on the same map with Kansas.—Philadelphia Record.

WHEN FOLKS WORE CLOTHES
Forty years ago this month, a big department store in Kansas City conducted a "great bargain sale" offering red flannels plain or twilled at 18, 22 1/2 and 30 cents a yard (something seldom carried in stock by the present day department store); ladies' camels' hair, scarfs, and all wool underwear, vests and drawers, $1 each, worth $1.50; ladies' all wool cashmere hose, full-length made 28 cents a pair, worth 50 cents. Those were the days when folks wore clothes and believed in keeping warm in winter, with the help of stoves and red flannels.

All of US

By Marshall Maslin

How Did It Happen to You?
How on earth did it happen? How did you get where you are? How can you explain it?
You were going to be carefree all your life, but you are not. You've had your troubles like everybody else. You've got into the ghastliest jams, and had to waste a lot of energy to get out of them. But somehow you aren't sorry.

You intended to be a shining success. You were going to nail your name to the heavens for all to see and to admire. But your name isn't there at all. Only a few people know it, only a few know YOU. You aren't a failure, but you certainly are NOT what you intended to be.

You made up your mind to travel EVERYWHERE. You were going to South Africa, where the diamond mines are; to India, where the lovely Taj Mahal shines in the moonlight; to South America, and to that farthest Cape Horn, round which the pioneers beat in their trim clipper ships. . . . But you don't go. You stayed at home and got a job and didn't see as much as you thought you'd see.

You were ambitious. You swore you would climb HIGH. You'd be selfish. You'd be different. You'd make no friends that could interfere with your mountain climbing. You wouldn't be soft, you'd be as hard as nails. You wouldn't marry and have children, and many a time you quoted to yourself: "Down to Gehenna and up to the throne, he travels the fastest who travels alone." That would be YOU—traveling alone and getting somewhere and getting everything you thought you wanted out of this life.

But here you are—with a job—and a wife or a husband—and a house—and children that adore you—and friends who like you and help you or ask to be helped—and you haven't done THERE, and you haven't done THIS—and, just the same, you are HAPPY.

How did it happen? You haven't done what you wanted to do, you haven't gotten what you thought you ought to have. And yet, here you are! You were going by one road to happiness—but you went by another road entirely and still you came to happiness.

You thought you knew ALL about life, but it looks as if you didn't. Did you? And how can you explain it?

Give a Thought to Others
You may have been reared in a good home, had the benefit of excellent home training and educational advantages that make you well prepared for life's undertakings.

But you do not allow yourself to accept on an equal basis those who have been less favored, although they may have reached high places by their own efforts.

You are not liberal enough, not "big enough" to give them credit for having a desire to put themselves up beyond the handicap they once had to carry.

It was a still greater achievement to go farther than mere desire and actually overcome almost insurmountable obstacles, hindrances you have never had in your career.

What would be your condition today if you had not been fortunate enough to receive assistance at every corner?

Have you the stamina to carry you over the rough places these less fortunate persons have negotiated? Would you today be the cultured person you are, if it were not for the self-sacrificing intelligent backing of your parents?

They cried Him down who begged of them to see.

More in this life than power and pomp and fame.

As they were born, so to this earth He came.

As they were, so they felt He ought to be.

Thus when He spoke of greater majesty Than Caesar's anger burst in flame.

In hate they made a mockery of His name.

Taking His life to set Barabbas free.

Who scorns the joys the many cherish most.

Who dares to thrust the pomp of power aside.

To walk with fishermen along the coast.

Talking of souls the ragged garments hide.

Who cries that life has more than gold to boast.

Will understand why Him they crucified.

Bliss Ranked As Statesman As Well As Army Strategist

Death Of General Brings Estimates Of His Career Which Credit Him With Common Sense, Scholarship And Capacity For Hard Work

Unusual qualities are placed to the credit of General Tasker H. Bliss, whose death reminds the nation of the services of one who contributed to American distinction in statesmanship as well as in the military realm. He is accorded high place both in Army history and in present-day governmental activities.

"There will be general concurrence," says the PITTSBURGH POST-GAZETTE, "in the tribute paid to him by former Secretary of War Baker—A great American, a great servant and citizen of the world." The MEMPHIS COMMERCIAL APPEAL calls him "one of the greatest soldiers of our history," recalling that as Chief of Staff during the World War he bore the heaviest responsibilities to be placed upon any man," and concluding: "He was a man of sound judgment, not only in military affairs but in other fields. He was a scholar, a man of talent and of culture. His creative mind was combined with his scholarly turn to make him an outstanding strategist."

"Active seekers of international peace and justice feel the loss, and many men in foreign countries regret the passing of a gifted and gracious friend," declares the CINCINNATI ENQUIRER, with the tribute that he was "one of the great figures of our age," and the further statement: "Even more significant than his splendid service to the Nation in four major military campaigns was his continuous service to the Nation in time of peace. One of a long stream of highly competent military men, General Bliss stands out among them as one who had been equally great in any of several walks of life. A profound scholar, a man of the widest interests and sympathies, friend of notable personalities in many countries, his attainments ranked high in countless activities."

"As a soldier," according to the WASHINGTON EVENING STAR, "he had learned the horrors of war. He was, in his later years, a ceaseless crusader for a better method of settling international disputes than by military force, though he consistently refrained from the view that a warlike world could be achieved merely by wishing for it."

Referring to his "worthy role in the war for peace," The Star concludes: "In all things, the motto of his Alma Mater, the United States Military Academy, was his guide and inspiration—Duty, Honor, Country."

The fact that he made many friends in and around San Antonio is emphasized by The Express of that city, which states as to his career: "He was unassuming, sturdy, devoted to duty and loyal to his country. His life should remain an example for his countrymen." The BALTIMORE SUN gives him a very high position with the statement: "Perhaps of all the outstanding names in recent military history only Hindenburg's can be put beside him with respect to magnitude of other and more than the purely soldierly qualities and spirit."

The former Chief of Staff was considered to have found his métier in military theory rather than in field work. But beyond the customary army affairs he had an inquiring awake and almost scholarly mind, and his name was thus identified not only with two wars but with such diverse activities as the study of interior

Fine Program Presented At Trinity Church

Many Hear Musical Service And Organ Recital At Church Sunday Night

In a program of varied musical compositions, which brought out the beauties of tone and voicing of the pipeorgan of Trinity Episcopal church, mellowed by years of use and made possible by the wonderful workmanship at its inception and restored during the past summer, when the organ was completely reconditioned, Paul Browne Patterson, organist and choirmaster of the church, following the shortened form of evening prayer conducted by the Rector, Rev. Philip C. Pearson, delighted the large congregation present.

Mr. Patterson was accorded most able assistance by the choir and Mrs. Fred S. Emery, for many years a leading concert violinist, who in her charming selections, added additional triumph to her success here.

Outstanding in the pipeorgan recital was the first presentation of "Romana" by Paul Browne Patterson, the organist of the evening. It was a beautiful composition, with the theme worked out first in the wood winds, then working into the various stops of the organ, with marked contrasts, that held the audience spellbound. The presentation of "The Nighthale and the Rose" by Saint Saens and "An Elizabethan Idyll" by T. Tertius Noble brought out many special features of the organ.

In the concluding organ number "Grand March from Queen of Sheba," Mr. Patterson was enabled to bring out the full effects of the great organ. Adding to the impressiveness of the organ was the new tremolo added when the organ was reconditioned this summer.

The vested choir in procession through the church at the opening and close of the musical service and organ recital, added much to the beauty of the occasion.

The program follows:—
Prelude—Berceuse—Clarence Dickinson.
Processional Hymn—Jesus, King of Glory.

Peter's Adventures

PETER GETS THE HIGH SIGN
Peter lowered his spike and wiped the beads of perspiration from his forehead.

"I don't blame you for taking me for a spy, Digger. The evidence was all against me. It stands to reason that you wouldn't expect to meet anyone but a Black Ant in this secret passage. I am sorry you hurt yourself on the point of my spear, but I couldn't prevent you hurling yourself upon it. I warned you, you'll remember."

"Nine times out of ten, what I did would have been right!" declared Digger Ant, "but this time I was wrong, and I admit it. However, what's the use of worrying over what has past."

"No use at all!" Busy spoke briskly. "Now that that's settled, be off about your business, both of you! Round up the young queens, Digger and hustle them to safety. Keep on where you were going, boy, and if you see another scout give her the high sign before she has time to throw herself upon you."

"The high sign?" Peter was puzzled. "What is that?"

"The antennae held high above the head," replied Busy.

"But I haven't any antennae, Busy!"

"That's so!" For a second Busy was worried. Then that worker ant brightened up.

"Then hold up your legs straight in the air!" Peter giggled.

"Wouldn't it be taking a pretty big chance to lie down flat on my back defenseless, for an enemy to pounce upon?"

"Don't be silly! Who said anything about lying on your back?" Busy was scornful.

"Well, I'd have to, to hold my legs in the air! I guess you mean my hands." Busy had, but she wouldn't say so.

Extend Streets Through Jackson Park To Aid Jobless; Suggested

In the opinion of citizens who are seeking means to alleviate the unemployment situation, work should be started on the old Stone Church cemetery property bought by the city in 1927 for the express of extending two thoroughfares to East Washington street.

According to the deed transfer to the city the property of about one acre, situated on East Washington street at the end of Walnut street, is called Jackson park. It was bought by the city for $5,000, and early after the purchase it had been proposed that the ground would enable city engineers to work out a way to extend Superior and Cunningham avenues to East Washington street.

The balance of the property not taken up in the street extension would make an admirable park in a splendid location near the heart of the city, according to many. The ground was a cemetery and contained graves of Revolutionary and Civil War dead. These graves have been removed to Greenwood cemetery.

For a long time civic bodies in the city have been urging council to take action and proceed with the building project, but the work has been delayed. In 1923 the Booster Club had enthusiastic meetings and proceeded to interest council with the necessity of finishing the street extension. A committee of the club, Robert M. Hainer, chairman; C. L. McMillen and Paul Griffith endeavored to get the city to hurry the work, but apparently did not succeed.

Now, with unemployment in the city, the original sponsors are of the belief that the work should start immediately.

Hi-Y Gospel Team Conducts Services At First Christian

New Members Inducted Into Membership; William Shira,
President, Presides

A large crowd was present at the Hi-Y gospel team program at the First Christian church Sunday evening when new members were inducted into membership. Music was furnished by Mrs. Schenck, Miss Garvin, S. Lewis and R. Johns. Mrs. Paul Browne Patterson was the accompanist at the organ.

After the opening devotions Rev. Bennett turned over the service to William Shira, president of the Hi-Y.

Thanksgiving of the early settlers of this country to the present date

Second speaker was Ray Bennett, son of Rev. Bennett, also a gospel team worker. His subject was the "Why of Thanksgiving". He had as his points: to be thankful as a nation, quoting the 123 Psalm; for our educational system; for the government we enjoy; as a church. Greatest year in the history of churchdom is being celebrated this year has lived 1900 years and is growing greater in service each year. Last, we should be thankful for the greatest gift of all—Christ.

The third speaker was Donald Williams, "How to Celebrate Thanksgiving." He gave a vivid description of the various holidays and the different uses of them and pictured how Thanksgiving was peculiarly a "home day," a day when there should be good time and feasts. But the main part should not be forgotten, that of thanking God for all blessings.

Following the talks 15 young men were inducted into the Hi-Y with a ceremony in charge of William Shira, Kenneth Atkinson, Thomas Hawkins, Harry Shannon and Robert Mills, advisor. Following the admitting of these boys into the club, R. Mills, the advisor, gave a short talk of instruction. The service was closed by the prayers and the benediction by the minister of the First Christian church, Rev. Bennett.

Book Week was well observed in New Castle schools presented programs with casts of fiction characters, school libraries had contests, posters adorned walls of the rooms of the grade schools, and a book exhibit was arranged by the New Castle free public library.

Saturday was the last day of Book Week and the programs have ceased and book exhibits removed, but it all has left an indelible impression on the people of this city as well as the nation.

The Parent Problem

by GARRY C. MYERS, Ph.D.

Be Considerate Of Child, Don't Laugh At Remarks No Matter How Unusual

Smiling At Tot's Questions, Ignoring Talk Inspire Personality Fears And Feelings Of Inferiority

By GARRY C. MYERS, Ph.D.
Head Division Parental Education, Cleveland College, Western Reserve University

We want our children to be likeable. We, therefore, want them to look squarely at us when we speak to them or they to us; so also when they address others or are addressed by them.

But unawares we tend to make it hard for them to acquire these wholesome habits, nor do we always set before them good models.

That little child in the early stages of acquiring speech, who has learned to look upon us as his loving helper and protector, finds us, his parents smiling at him after he has uttered something, asked some questions or volunteered some remark. Our smiles and laughter at his difficulties (pleasures at his pains) cause him to feel about us and I feel when someone ridicules us. But those who make fun of us don't do so just to make us suffer. They do so because they get immediate satisfaction from the doing. None the less, they have done us serious injury.

When we parents smile or laugh at our child, make fun of him, forsooth, we also have no purpose to give him pain. We smile for about the same reason a pleased dog wags his tail. All the while we are having this enjoyment our expressions of satisfaction deeply wound the feelings of the child. We inspire personality fears in him, make him feel increasingly inferior.

When you and I experience similar fears our eyes and head and shoulders droop. We sink away as if about to hide. At that moment we are least attractive. Surely we are least comfortable, and our presence makes those near us ill at ease. If, therefore, we desire to help our children, even from early infancy, to use his eyes and whole means of expression, to make his personality attractive, we shall be very considerate of his feelings. No matter how funny at the moment he utters may seem, no matter how surprised we are at any question he may ask, we shall be so on our guard as not to smile at him. We shall try to see as he sees, understand as he understands, feel as he feels, always striving to put ourselves into his place.

Prono we are also to take our loved ones for granted, particularly our children. We let them talk at length with all their ardor and enthusiasm while we daydream with our attention miles away. At such times our eyes wander, focusing upon anything, or wander into space, though the earnest child assumes that we are listening. Perhaps we answer him with grunts or other mere mechanical, just to keep him from repeating or begging us to prove our attention.

How much more lovable you and I could grow to be were we always to face squarely our loved ones when we address them or when they speak to us. Instead, how inclined we are to act as if we had no eyes, or as if they were pests. Something here for you and me to think about.

In how many of the states which have old age pension laws, is the cost of said pensions carried partly by the state?

Of the seven states in which pension laws were in force in 1929, only one, Wisconsin, assumes part of the cost with the counties. In Wisconsin the state government assumes one-third of the cost up to a total of as much as $200,000 per annum. Beyond this the counties are required to meet the cost. In all the other states the full cost of the pension is borne by the counties.

Squabble Over Shawl, Coverlet Ownership, Lands Case In Court

Alderman's Office Scene Of Lengthy Arguments As Two Women Give Testimony

Glamour attached to ancient family heirlooms was not absent from Alderman W. E. Marshall's office Saturday afternoon when a squabble over the ownership of an old Paisley shawl and a crazily decorated coverlet spurred rival attorneys and witnesses to stretch the hearing to two hours.

The case of Patterson vs. Rhodes was held for county court by the alderman. The charge was preferred by William Patterson against Mrs. Anna M. Rhodes of 329 East North street.

A beautiful Paisley shawl, alleged to have been worth $100, and a coverlet, also said to be worth $100, according to the information sworn out by Patterson in behalf of his wife, the owner of the property, was found missing, together with other property, from the Patterson home at 210 North Mercer street. The Pattersons had since moved to Swissvale, near Pittsburgh. Mrs. Patterson testified she had inherited the shawl and coverlet and had come into possession while visiting her homestead in Lancaster county two years ago. She identified the Paisley by locating an elusive red thread in the center of the material, an error caused in the manufacture of the shawl. She also showed a portion where the shawl had been worn out.

The defendant, Mrs. Rhodes, declared she had bought the coverlet from an antique dealer, and Mrs. Dora Knapp of Columbiana, O., the dealer, a witness at the hearing, corroborated her testimony. Mrs. Rhodes added the shawl had been purchased from an unidentified party. She denied that the two pieces had been taken by her, but admitted she had visited the Patterson home twice.

At a hearing two weeks ago, when the case was postponed for last Saturday due to the absence of Mrs. Patterson, Detective Logan and Officer Young testified that the shawl and coverlet which were on exhibition in Alderman Marshall's office had been found in the Rhodes residence after a search warrant gained them access to the home. At the previous hearing Mrs. Knapp, the antique dealer, identified the coverlet as the one she sold to Mrs. Rhodes by breaks in the fringe.

State Civil Service Quota Not Filled

Pennsylvania Is Entitled To More Employees Under Civil Service

(Special To The News)
WASHINGTON, D. C., Nov. 24.—Although Pennsylvania is almost 31 per cent in arrears of its quota of civil service employees in Washington, the State's arrears in this respect is still exceeded by that of 32 other states, a report on the condition of civil service apportionment reveals.

According to the civil service commission, the apportionment of civil service workers among the states, territories, and the District of Columbia is still based on the decennial census of 1920, under which Pennsylvania is entitled to 3,078 employees in the civil service groups that are subject to such apportionment. On November 15, however, the Keystone State was represented by only 2,122 civil service workers employed in the Capital in positions requiring appointments.

From these figures it may be seen that Pennsylvania has 956 fewer civil service employees or almost 31 per cent less than it deserves, in relation to the apportionments of other states. Only three states, Vermont, Virginia, and Maryland, as well as the District of Columbia, are over quota.

From the beginning of the operation of the civil service law the commission has made every possible effort to maintain approximate equality under the apportionment provision in appointments to the departmental service in Washington, but the inequality in the apportionment has increased. The commission, however, attempts where possible to fill appointments with an eye to the State quotas.

Court Prospects At Westminster Only Fair; Candidates Called Out

(Special To The News)
NEW WILMINGTON, Pa., Nov. 24.—Westminster College should have a fairly good defensive team in basketball this year, but it is not likely that the Titans will be much on offense. A careful study of the material available proves.

With the close of the football season on Saturday against Bethany, Coach "Pops" Harrison will make a general call for candidates for the court team this week. The fact that a new coach with a new system is faced with the loss of the whole scoring punch which kept Westminster on the top of the district heap for four years should be welcome to district rivals.

In Captain Phil Rice and Marshall Fisher, Westminster has two of the best guards in the district. But neither man was a scoring threat last year. Of all points tallied by the Titans in winning the conference championship last winter, O'Donovan, Delahunty, and Crowell were responsible for 92 per cent.

But O'Donovan, Delahunty, and Crowell, three of the best players the Titans ever had, are gone. The candidates to take their places show promise, but they have not as yet any of the dash and sparkle of the high-scoring trio of the last four campaigns.

In addition to Captain Rice and Fisher, both guards, other men who have seen some service on Titan teams include: Harry Brownlee, center; Danny Considine, forward; Ted Blamer, guard; John Hamas, forward; Gerald Newton, forward; Michael Kocharan, forward; Mauno Siljander, forward; and Bill Williams, center.

There are a few freshmen available, but little is known of the scoring ability of the men. Coach Harrison had some of the new men on the court a number of times last week to see how they worked, but aside from foul shooting and passing practice, the men have done little to prepare for the season's schedule of 13 games starting early in January.

Tall men are still available for the Blue and White five if they will fit into Coach Harrison's system. The six-footers still on the team from last year's squad include Captain Rice, Fisher, Brownlee, Williams, Siljander, Blamer, and Considine. But "Pops" has not quite decided what sort of system he will use. After the men have scrimmaged for a week or two he believes that he will be able to determine what style of play will work best with the material on hand.

Harrison played at forward and but he did see Duquesne play twice last year and claims the three Titans stars must have been scoring aces to defeat Benedict and Stephens. Those who have followed Titan court teams for the last five seasons realize, though, that there is very little scoring ability left. As a result, fans look forward to a fair season with victories and defeats about evenly divided.

If the narrowness of the political margin in congress doesn't extend to congressional minds the nation may grin and bear it.—The South Bend Tribune

Harrison never saw O'Donovan, Delahunty, and Crowell in action.

Former Local Boy Writes About Texas

Charles Gurgolo, Jr., a former local resident, who with his parents, left here during October to make his home in Dallas, Tex., writes of the splendors he has discovered in his new home.

His letter follows:
Dallas, Texas, Nov. 19, 1930.
Dear Mr. Bentz:

We are receiving your newspaper daily. I decided to write you. We arrived the latter part of October and have seen no cold weather yet except perhaps an occasional frost. My mother, brother and sister are here with me, we only missed three days of school since we left the New Castle school on a Wednesday and commenced here the following Monday. There are no Junior High schools, but one enters high school after the seventh grade. I was a George Washington Junior High 7B1 and now I am placed in High 6 which has practically the same work. My sister goes to Technical High school.

While in South Dallas we went peck hunting and found about a peck of pecans, we also visited a wholesale nursery and saw many beautiful flowers growing in long rows in the fields, carnas lilies, lantana, periwinkle, dahlias, verbena, we even saw banana plants which are grown on account of their broad leaves. The carnas remain in the ground all winter. But the most beautiful were the many thousands of pyramidal arbor vitae and the blue Arizona cypresses, there are also many magnolia trees which do not shed their leaves.

And I must tell you about our Sunday school, we attended a Sunday school the next day after we arrived and found out that there are different Methodist churches, this one was a Methodist South and different than ours, so the following Sunday we went to the First Methodist Episcopal church, the only one of its kind in Dallas, and we all liked the Sunday school very much and will continue to attend this one. And also I want to tell you that I carry the Bible you gave me a couple of years ago and I am very proud of it. But you did not give it directly to me but it was through your generosity that I received it at Sunday school, perhaps you will remember that I called on you at your office one day to thank you for it. I was accompanied by my brother and sister. My brother Arthur and sister Rosalie have their Bibles that they received at Sunday school in New Castle.

We see more horses in a day here than we would see in a year in New Castle and we see many donkeys also. I like to watch them. Then there are many pigeons and chickens, even in the downtown and residential sections of the city, we always hear the roosters crow in the morning.

We stopped over a day and a night in Chicago and learned many things about Chicago, saw the Lindbergh Beacon, we went on the upper deck of a sight seeing bus through Lincoln Park saw Grant's monument and went to Lake Michigan and returned to the city on the elevated road. We left the next morning at 11:30 for St. Louis and on our way passed through Lincoln, Illinois, that was the only city named after Abraham Lincoln during his lifetime, soon we came to Springfield the capital where Lincoln spent his early manhood and is his final resting place. And I almost forgot to tell you about Summit, Ill., twelve miles from Chicago Father Marquette wintered there in 1674 and we could see the monument commemorating this event. We arrived at St. Louis just at dark, it was six p.m. We crossed the Mississippi and Missouri rivers but could not see them very well. The next morning we saw Muscogee, Oklahoma just at daylight and flowers were all in bloom and not touched by frost. The leaves were all nice and green on the Lombardy poplars by the station, soon we began to see fields of cotton that was supposed to be the second crop. We know now what sage brush is like, it smells like sage. And I like the crepe myrtle tree, its leaves turn red as it blossoms when autumn comes. There are many oaks and cottonwood trees. The mosquitoes are very vicious and sly in this state, I like the Pennsylvania variety much better.

We have not acquired the southern dialect or accent yet but most everyone uses it even the school teachers. At school the different teachers remarked about our pronunciation and ability in using the English language, but I think it was on account of our not using their familiar accent. If you ever long to have anyone call you Honey, dearie or darling just come to this part of Texas and they will address you that way regardless of any previous acquaintance and I think they talk too slow to ever really say much when they get angry, if they ever do. Yours truly,

Charles Gurgolo, Jr.

Finds Many Ignorant Of Composition Of Soap

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

Soaps, powders and creams are the usual applications to the skin during health.

What are they made of and what do they do? There was a story long ago in St. Nicholas Magazine about a little boy who was magically transported from this century to a hut of uncivilized people in the stone age. He asked them why they did not have windows, and described the use of glass. They replied that they would be glad to have such wonders, and asked him to make some glass for them. But he did not know what glass was made of. He went through a long list of common articles this way. He had no idea of the composition of any of them. The only thing he was able to make for this prehistoric ancestors was a candle. But they were sufficiently delighted with that.

Few of us have the faintest idea of the composition or manufacture of the commonest things we use—soap and toothpaste, for instance.

Soaps are made basically by boiling fats with caustic soda or caustic potash. In the process the fats give off their glycerine and combine with the soda and potash. The hard soaps are ordinarily use are sodium soaps. Coconut oil is the usual fat used in the better soaps. It "lathers" well but is somewhat unstable and liable to turn rancid. Olive oil is used in other soaps.

An excess of the alkalis—soda and potash—is irritating and the better soaps are super-fatted, so as to eliminate much of the free alkali.

Rosin is sometimes added to soap and coloring matter and perfume nearly always. The rosin, seldom put in American soap, makes the skin sticky after use.

The cleansing action of soap is through the soap emulsifying the free fat and grease on the skin. This grease and dirt is carried away with the rinsing.

A good soap should be made from clean, fresh fats, free from an excess of alkali or coconut oil, with no rosin added, and should lather freely. There are many good soaps which have these qualities. "The user," says Dr. Puscy, "is dependent upon the reliability of the manufacturer, and for that reason is surest when he gets a soap bearing upon it the name of a firm which has a reputation to maintain." American soap manufacturers have generally established a high standard of efficiency and harmlessness for their products.

Medicated soaps have little value. If a drug needs to be applied to the skin it can be done so much better directly rather than incorporated in soap. Then the dose will be accurately gauged and applied in proper strength.

QUESTIONS FROM READERS.

J. T. Tulsa, Okla.: "I heard a lecturer say there are 18 chemical elements composing the human body, two of which have been recently discovered in very minute quantities. What are they?"

Answer: I do not know exactly what the lecturer said. The important chemical elements composing the human body are carbon, oxygen, nitrogen, hydrogen, iron, calcium, phosphorus, sulphur, iodine, chlorine, sodium and potassium. Traces of silicon, Manganese, zinc, copper, magnesium and aluminium are sometimes found. Under diseased conditions or when drugs are being taken, silver, gold, arsenic, mercury, bromine and lead (as well as others) may be found.

It has been reported through the churches that there are hungry children in the public schools and some pathetic cases have been unearthed.

These things were brought to the attention of the Baldwin Bible class of the Highland United Presbyterian church Sunday morning by Mrs. Gail Blum, whose attention had been called to conditions in the Lincoln-

A committee was appointed by the president of the class, Mrs. Ray Rhodes, who will visit at the school today and also in the homes, taking care of those who are hungry. The women also are forming a group to make over clothes for the children who are not clothed properly for the cold weather coming on.

It's too Good to Be True! 40 Pianos at Less Than Manufacturer's Cost

Here's How We Can Make This Astounding Offer!

A large Pittsburgh finance company, handling thousands of dollars in contracts, got burned to the tune of some $52,000 in paper representing several hundred pianos placed "temporarily" in private homes. These pianos were never ACTUALLY SOLD. In order to get at least a portion of their loss back they have requested a number of legitimate firms to purchase a quantity of these pianos. We were fortunate in getting 40. THESE PIANOS ARE OFFERED TO THE PUBLIC OF THIS CITY AT PRICES BELOW THE MANUFACTURER'S ACTUAL COST.

All These Pianos Must Be Sold By December 15th!

We must dispose of these pianos by December 15th. The holiday season, with our regular lines of pianos, radios and musical instruments, is a busy one. We have been obliged to secure, temporarily, more room and until we place these pianos we will be crowded for proper display space for our regular stock. Don't delay getting your order in for the delivery of your piano for Christmas.

You Will Say Your Purchase Is An Investment!

Stocks may go down in Wall Street . . . your new automobile bought today may drop $300 tomorrow . . . the lot you purchased a few months ago for $1500 may only be worth $750 today . . . but once you have seen these piano values you will positively know that you are making a sound investment . . . that the money you are paying for ANY OF THESE PIANOS is doing its work for you many times over.

We are willing to pass these values on . . . because we know it will make many new lifelong friends and customers for us. ## Council Plans Work Projects

Declines However To Appropriate Fund Asked By Committee

SOME CITY JOBS TO BE CREATED

Members of city council convened today in the city building and decided not appropriate $35,000, for an employment program here but adopted motions presented by Councilman Clayton H. Reeves which will result, it was indicated in several municipal projects being started and on which only men out of work will be employed.

After council session had opened, DeGraff Pearson, chairman of the unemployment division of the mayor's relief committee, was called to the councilmen's table and the city clerk read the following report:

"At the request of Mr. DeGraff Pearson, the members of council met Friday afternoon in conference with all members present and after carefully considering the proposition in regard to the unemployed in the city came to the following conclusion: 'That, the city is willing to do whatever lies within its power and ability to relieve the unemployment as the same may arise during the coming months.'

"That there has been appointed a committee from the prominent citizens of the city to investigate upon the unemployment situation.

"That the conference deemed it not expedient at this time to set any sum of money that might be required to carry on the proposed program."

The report followed a request by Mr. Pearson, Friday, that council appropriate $35,000 and he would request the commissioners of the county of Lawrence to appropriate a like amount so that a program of employment could be launched and put through during winter months.

Council asked Mr. Pearson if he had anything to say. He replied: "I would not have any comment to make upon the deliberations of council. As far as I am concerned the matter is closed with me. I cannot go any farther. If this is taken out of my hands, my efforts are through."

He explained that the appropriation of $35,000, to the relief fund, did not necessarily mean that the money had to be used unless it was found necessary. He opined that if the money was appropriated and made available, it would be ready if it were decided to use it.

Mr. Pearson told council that the only way to ascertain how many men are unemployed, is to create a relief fund, map out a program of employment then ask for men. He told council he had been named by the relief committee as unemployment chairman.

He also enlightened council by stating one county commissioner had offered to vote to "match dollar for dollar with the city." Pearson offered free limestone to the city if hand labor was employed to fix up streets. He mentioned Cascade and Taylor streets.

Pearson argued that should the city appropriate the money it would make it possible for him to go to the commissioners and they then would appropriate a like amount which would be followed by an employment program being arranged and men now out of work could be given employment.

A general discussion occurred and out of it came motions by Councilman C. H. Reeves which were adopted unanimously. Two projects will be started as soon as possible and plans and specifications with estimates of cost will also be prepared and it is possible they also will be put through soon as possible.

Reeves motion provides for the immediate construction of a storm sewer in Meyer avenue and the grading of Rural avenue from the cement wall to Neshaunock avenue. Specifications remain to be drawn and council will be required to draft ordinances for the work.

Council also adopted motions by Reeves requesting plans, specifications and estimates of cost for a storm sewer in Taylor street, widening of East Washington street between County Line street and Butler avenue and also for the widening of Neshaunock Narrows between Rural avenue and the paper mill bridge.

It was stated that only men who are out of work will be given employment or the jobs. While the department of streets is authorized to do the work, the street men will not be used for the work. They will be recruited from the ranks of the unemployed.

LOCAL ORCHESTRA TO BROADCAST PROGRAM

New Castle talent will again be represented in a broadcast over Station WKBN, Youngstown, when William Wallace's local orchestra goes on the air Sunday, December 7, between 7 and 8 p. m.

KNOX KILLED AT GRADE CROSSING OF PENNSYLVANIA

The train had not stopped at the station, but according to information obtained by the coroner, had whistled for the crossing. At the west end of the bridge there is a sharp turn in the highway across the tracks to the bridge. Mr. Knox had crossed the west track and had almost cleared the east track, or the one nearest the bridge on which the train was running, when the engine struck the rear end of this truck.

The truck was hurled about thirty feet against a heavy telegraph pole near the north side of the west end of the bridge. The impact was so great that the pole, a new one, was broken completely in two about the center. The truck wedged in against the pole and the abutment of the bridge. The door flew open and Mr. Knox was thrown out, alighting on a heap of stones. The truck was a complete wreck.

Knew Crash Coming
Robert Mitchell, a young man who witnessed the accident, was the first on the ground. The train stopped and the train crew ran back. By this time several people living in the vicinity had arrived. Mr. Knox was still breathing when they picked him up, but died a few minutes afterwards and an undertaker was summoned.

Robert Mitchell told the coroner that he was on the west end of the bridge when he saw the train coming and also saw Mr. Knox approaching. There is a clear view of the track and also of the road from the bridge to the station. When Mr. Knox arrived at the crossing, the train was but a short distance down the track. Mitchell thought Knox was going to stop, but as he did not, and the train was almost to the crossing Mitchell saw that there was going to be a collision, and turned his head away so that he would not see the crash. An instant afterwards he looked and saw the truck wedged against the telegraph pole, and the train coming to a stop.

Was Careful Driver
Mr. Knox is said to have been a careful driver. He operates a garden farm and had crossed the tracks thousands of times. His friends are at a loss to understand just why the accident occurred. One theory of his friends is that he was thinking about something and that this may have distracted his thoughts from the crossing. Another theory is that, if he saw the train, he misjudged its speed and thought that he had time to get across. Those who know him best, however, believe that if he had seen the train coming he would not have taken a chance. They are of the opinion that he did not know the train was coming.

Heard Train Whistle
Mitchell did not remember having heard the whistle blow for the crossing, but Russell Michael, who was up in the town, told the coroner that he had heard the train whistle. A few minutes afterwards he learned of the accident.

The untimely death of Mr. Knox was a great shock to the community. He was one of the best known men in that section, and one whom everybody loved on account of his kind disposition. He was also well known in New Castle, where he has been in the habit of making frequent trips while following his occupation of gardening.

He had been tax collector of Pulaski township for a number of years, and made a very competent official.

Mr. Knox belonged to the Presbyterian church of Pulaski and the Masonic lodge at West Middlesex. He is survived by his wife, Emma Knox and one daughter, Mrs. Adrian Schultz, of Mt. Jackson.

Funeral services will be held Wednesday at 2 p. m. from the family home in Pulaski.

Epworth League Has Evening Party

Members of the Epworth league of the First Methodist church enjoyed an "auto" party Saturday evening in the Sabbath school room of the church with Jane Hawkins in charge, assisted by Gretchen Myers.

After the young people had assembled they were separated into groups with each group bearing the name of an automobile. The groups then entered into contests, stunts and games of various kinds, causing the evening hours to slip away all too quickly.

To close the evening a dainty lunch was served by the committee.

Murder Mystery Baffles Police

New York City Police Shocked By Gruesome Murder Discovered Today

DISMEMBERED BODY LOCATED

By JAMES L. KILGALLIN
International News Service Staff Correspondent

NEW YORK, Nov. 24.—A murder mystery, as ghastly and appalling as any that has come from the pen of the immortal Edgar Allan Poe, confronted the police of New York City today. The dismembered legs and arms of the victim—apparently a man of refinement and means—was found this morning in a cheap and battered suitcase in the doorway of a vacant store in the lower East Side. Two hours later a torso of a man, wedged in a trunk, was found floating in the North River at Fifty Eighth street—several miles from the scene of the first discovery. Dozens of detectives were assigned to the mystery. They questioned scores of persons in the tenements of the East Side but they could learn little.

Police Shocked
Even the old-timers in the police department were shocked by this latest killing. Not in years has there been anything like it here where murders are not uncommon. It recalled the slaying of William Guldensuppe, of thirty years ago. The dismembered legs of Guldensuppe, a Turkish bath rubber, was first found; then his torso. But the head never turned up. A barber, Martin Thorn, was executed for the murder and Augusta Naack, who confessed that Guldensuppe was her lover, turned state's evidence and served a prison sentence.

BE DELAYED UNTIL

Awarding of a contract for the new $250,000 boys' dormitory at Grove City College, for which bids were opened last week, will probably be delayed until later this week, it was learned today.

Dr. W. C. Ketter, president of the college returned over the week end from a conference with a college board official at Philadelphia. It was said he has nothing definite to announce.

URGE PURCHASE OF OLD FORT SITE

SUNBURY, Pa., Nov. 24.—Purchase of Fort Augusta, near here, by the legislature for use as a state park, is advocated in a resolution adopted by the Northumberland County Historical Society at a meeting here.

The property, it is understood, is for sale and a strong movement is afoot to have it purchased by the state.

POTTSVILLE, Pa., Nov. 24.—The chestnut tree, once the commonest and most valuable of all in Pennsylvania, is staging a comeback in Schuylkill county and other sections after a 20 year struggle with chestnut blight. State forestry research men here say the chestnut is becoming more widespread and that within a few years the blight will be stamped out.

SCHOOL IS SUED IN ORAL CONTRACT

Former Ellwood Banker Is Given New Sentence

P. Schoonmaker in federal court here.

Numbers Agent Is Outsmarted

MONESSEN, Pa., Nov. 24.—John Garmosky has lost his faith in the state police.

John is listed by police here as an agent for a "numbers" syndicate. He was busy with several things when a tall, purposeful individual approached him and said:

"I'm a state trooper. The other day I played $15 on the numbers and hit. The pay-off man hasn't been around yet and I dropped in to see what you're going to do about it."

"Well, we can't have things like that going on," said the amiable John, as he peeled $15 from a roll. "here's $15 and we'll see it doesn't happen again."

Then John began to wonder. He investigated, found the stranger was no trooper. "Just another guy and another racket," mourned John.

Girls Enthusiastic About Sale Of Seals

In the past five or six weeks, the Lawrence County Tuberculosis Society office on East street was the rendezvous for groups of girls from the junior and senior Girl Reserve clubs of the city. The girls contributed their time and effort in folding thousands of Christmas seals, folding letters and putting them in envelopes that will on Friday morning be sent to citizens of New Castle and Lawrence County.

Proceeds from the sale of these Christmas seals will go to help in the prevention and cure of tuberculosis patients.

During one of the many evenings the Girl Reserves spent in packing the seals, several of the girls took pencil and paper and wrote down just what they thought about the coming seal sale.

Here are several of the opinions written by the volunteer workers:

By Lois Marlan Smith:
"Hurrah!" said a happy excited voice, "At last!"

"Well why don't you go on? At last? What?" came a rather cold response.

"Oh, I am so happy, because this is the week that I go out to do my life work, the very work for which I was born! I can hardly wait until Friday!" was the answer.

"Well, if you care to have me listen to your ravings you will have to be a little more explicit. How am I supposed to know what you mean? Please explain."

Even after this remark the little voice was just as excited.

"Don't you know that thousands of my brothers and sisters and I have been placed in large white envelopes in families of 100 each to be sent to all of the families of Lawrence county? There is a letter in this same envelope which tells what each family is worth and how each one of us go out to do our part of this work. The Girl Reserves fixed us up and now off we go. Don't you hope some nice person sends back a dollar for this family I am in?"

By Martha S. Clark:
I think the seals this year are more colorful and look more like Christmas seals than they have for a long time. One of the seals on your letter will make not only a pretty appearance but will be another step toward the prevention and cure of tuberculosis.

By H. Root:
Think of the emblem of the double cross and fight tuberculosis.

By Martha Emery:
Buy Christmas seals now and help the unfortunate people who are suffering with tuberculosis.

By Frances Burrows:
Come on and let's help the people who have tuberculosis. We don't know how they suffer because we have good health. But let's remember to do our bit by purchasing some tuberculosis seals.

By Lois Smith:
Think what buying a penny seal can do toward helping to fight tuberculosis. Let's make this sale of stamps this 24th year the largest it has ever been.

By Eleanor Fuller:
When you see the tuberculosis emblem, buy some seals and help those who have this disease.

Plan Operetta At Senior High

"The Nautical Knot" To Be Presented By Students In Near Future

The music department at the senior high school will appear before the friends and patrons of the school very soon in an operetta, "The Nautical Knot" by Rhys Herbert. In addition to the evening performance for the general public, a matinee is being planned for junior and senior high school pupils. Miss Long and Mr. Repligle have been at work on this musical production since the beginning of the year.

It is announced that the proceeds of the two performances will be used in the purchase of a radio to be used in the work of the music department and to defray the expenses of the annual music contest. This year the Northwestern Pennsylvania Interscholastic Musical association contest will be held in Oil City and it will call for a large expenditure to convey students in the band, orchestra and choruses together with their instruments to that place.

New Castle is justly proud of its public school music and the courtesies of the bands and orchestras of the various high schools to organizations and civic projects are numerous. This public performance of the operetta will give an opportunity of showing their appreciation of the fine work being done by these young musicians, to all those who already know of it and believe in it.

by JOSEPH VAN RAALTE
(By Central Press)
NEW YORK, Nov. 24.—The funny little stabs that a city like New York makes at being free and easy and human and intimate are really very pathetic.

For example: In 42d St., where "Abie's Irish Rose" budded, bloomed and withered—where "The Scandals" and "The Vanities" vie for attention in competition with shooting galleries and peep shows—within a stone's throw of the Paramount Building at "The Crossroads of the World" the following sign protrudes:
"Gypsy Tea Cabin. Fortunes Told From Tea Leaves. Gentlemen Welcome."

THE BUSY EXECUTIVE
One of those bureaus that dot Tammany Town like fly specks on the chandelier of a summer boarding house, heralds the glad news that "there is 23 per cent greater demand for first-class executives this fall than there was this time last year."

If the demand is only 23 per cent that means 77 per cent of the positions of "first-class executives" are already filled.

And what, we ask, smiling as if our heart would break, what are these 77 per cent doing? Why don't they get on the job and haul us out of the mud? Seventy-seven per cent is a quorum, isn't it? They'll have to snap into it pretty soon. If they don't, almost any day now we expect to see a couple o' boxes of apples in J. P. Morgan's show window, at Wall and Broad.

BROKE BUT BEAUTIFUL

One of the most hopeful messages in recent months is contained in a report to the effect that the Perfume and Cosmetic Boys produced 15 per cent more toilet preparations last year than in 1927—more, in fact, than in any year since 1849. And shampoos had the highest percentage of increases.

Think of it! There's American grit for you—the spirit that never says die. The American economic head may be temporarily bowed, but, by gad, sir, it's clean!

There's no dandruff on the collar of the business suit.
Broke but still beautiful!

FAR, FAR AWAY

They have collected in a volume called "Camera Obscura" some pieces that pore o' Bill Bolitho scribbled for the New York Morning World before Death smashed his typewriter. . . . . . . Sitting in the little breakfast nook of the studio, two by four, standardized, strewn with mechanical gimcracks, electric toasters and things, the talk was of life and love, the grandeur that was Greece and the glory that was Rome and the stupidity that is New York.

Beyond the square-paned curtained casement the town sparkled in the sunny, windy, autumn morning.
"You know," said my companion, "if I had my heart's desire right now, I'd be at the helm of a tricky little schooner, sailin' leagues to leeward of a coast I'd lost the chart of, overseas. . . . And here I am, peeping out at a bar of sunlight

Furniture Prices At Lowest Level

No Further Reductions In Furniture Prices To Be Made

Furniture prices, which had been steadily decreasing the past several months, have touched the lowest possible level and no further reductions will be made, retail dealers of New Castle who have attended the November markets announced after placing their orders for new merchandise.

Mr. Shenkan, who recently returned from Chicago, said he found prices of furniture manufacturers were firm throughout and that there had been no declines from the recent quotations which had brought the level of all types of furniture down to prewar basis.

Mr. Shenkan quoted the heads of both manufacturer and retailer associations in substantiation of his statement.

A. P. Haake, managing director of the National Association of Furniture Manufacturers, said after study of the price situation at the Chicago market that there is no question prices have reached a bottom figure. He said that judging from the opinion of furniture manufacturers a rising market may be expected.

"Furniture manufacturers, Dr. Haake explained, have endeavored to continue operations on a basis as near capacity as possible. In doing so, they were forced to cut their prices to a point where profit was impossible. When this situation became general, they were compelled to stop reducing prices, in order to hold losses to a minimum.

"Production is being reduced to the point of actual demand, according to our information from manufacturer headquarters, and when the supply volume is corrected, there is no doubt that prices will be raised, in order to bring a justifiable profit to the producer and distributor.

"The same conclusion was reached by Roscoe Rau, managing director of the National Retail Furniture Association. He said that prices have been dropping since 1921, but in the past several months they have gone to an unexpectedly low point. The Retail Association recently made a nationwide survey which showed that the level of furniture prices was down to where they were before the World War.

"Mr. Rau declared that from an economic standpoint furniture prices are too low. They could not go lower without damaging effect, he said, and the next corrective turn must be upward."

How Thanksgiving Day Began Long Ago

It might be of interest to a great number of Americans today to read an excerpt from a letter composed by Edward Winslow, of Plymouth, to go to England in the ship "Fortune," November, 1621.

"We set the last spring some twenty acres of Indian corn, and sowed some six acres of barley and peas. Our corn did prove well, and God be praised, we had a good increase of Indian corn.

"Our harvest being gotten in, our Governor sent four men on fowling, that so we might, after a special manner, rejoice together after we had gathered the fruit of our labors."

Thus, our forefathers, set aside a day for Thanksgiving for the few blessings they had and how much more should we of today, gather together to give thanks for the abundant blessings of the present age.

NOW the troubadour had a great advantage over the Robot, for the Robot can't be gay any more than he can be sad or sentimental.

RECENTLY a master of inventors took a load off the minds of most of us with the assurance that "no one will ever invent a mechanical man who can think."

He might have added that no Robot will ever feel, either. And where there is no feeling, no emotional capacity, there can be no music.

Millions, realizing this truth, have joined the Music Defense League in protest against substitution of Canned Music for Living Music in theatres. If you feel the same way you can serve your own, as well as the public's, interest by signing the coupon at the right.

Kelly To Ask For More Beds For Veterans

Will Seek Addition To Marine Hospital In Pittsburgh This Winter

MANY IN COUNTY AWAITING TREATMENT

Local World War veterans will be interested in the proposal of Congressman Kelly of Bradock to seek an addition to the Marine Hospital in Pittsburgh for the accommodation of veterans from the local area who are seeking hospital treatment.

The Marine Hospital has accommodations for 80 men, of which number, 60 have been allotted to the Veterans Bureau. These beds are constantly filled by men requiring immediate hospital treatment, a majority of these cases being treated there now being pneumonia victims from the Pittsburgh area.

Dr. H. S. Munroe, who is in charge of the medical staff at the Pittsburgh Veterans Bureau, states that at the present time, approximately 300 World War Veterans are seeking hospital treatment. Of this number, many are seeking operations which do not require immediate attention, but at the same time, the men are seriously inconvenienced through having to await treatment.

A great many Lawrence County veterans have had their applications for hospitalization in the hands of the Veterans Bureau for several months. Many of them require immediate attention. Secretary Orville Potter of the Lawrence County Chapter, American Red Cross, states:

In a majority of cases, men who have applied for treatment have had to wait for several months before they were able to get into the hospital, and as a result, their condition has been greatly aggravated when treatment was commenced. Many others have been unable to wait treatment, and have come to local hospitals for treatment.

There is plenty of room at the Marine hospital for at least double the present bed capacity and Congressman Kelly will propose that the government build an addition immediately.

The Aspinwall hospital is used entirely for patients suffering with tuberculosis and is constantly crowded.

Through the efforts of Congressman J. Howard Swock, an addition to the Aspinwall hospital was made last year, but even this has been insufficient to care for men who have applied for treatment.

The fliers expected to make their first stop on their 8,000-mile journey at Camden, a few miles distant. They expected to reach Baltimore by night.

The wives and mothers of the fliers saw them off today.

Don't Flock To Big Cities, Is Warning

Unemployment Intensified In Larger Cities By Unemployed People Migrating

New Castle Young Woman's Christian Association has been asked by J. Rogers Flannery of Pittsburgh, president of the National Association of Travelers Aid Societies, to warn all men and women to stay in their own cities instead of migrating to larger cities where there is a tendency of the difficulties faced by each community.

Statements from cities throughout the country indicate it is almost impossible to help non-residents find work now. The local Y. W. C. A. has been requested to co-operate in discouraging the tendency of the temporarily unemployed aimlessly drifting from their home communities to larger centers of population. The unemployed transients constitute one of the very serious phases of the present business situation.

Mr. Flannery said "Telegrams from Travelers Aid Societies throughout the country show clearly that just now it is of first importance for unemployed people to remain in the communities where they are known and where there is the best chance for them to get work or to secure relief.

"Under national and local leadership, American communities, large and small, are arising to the challenge of the present situation. In spite of this, the men or women out of work will need all the resources that come from friendship and residence that are not available to the drifters into strange communities, each of which is concerned with the problem of its own people. The kindest advice that can be given to men and women out of work today is to remain, if possible in their own communities—to stay in their home towns."

Travelers Aid organizations in every part of the country report a greatly increased number of strangers asking for assistance in finding employment. Organizations in 126 cities cooperated in the study and united in asking for cooperation in warning of the situation they will face in the larger cities of the country, and particularly in the industrial centers.

Ellwood High Ends Season With Victory

Tubers Defeat Bridgeville
By 32-13 Score On Home
Field Saturday
Passing Game Is Worked Successfully By Both
School Elevens

(By Tony Pasta)

ELLWOOD CITY, Nov. 24—Ellwood City High School's blue and white warriors run down the curtain on the 1930 football season on Saturday at the local field with a glorious victory over Bridgeville High by the one sided score of 32-13. The visitors put up a stubborn battle at times but could not stop the Ingle machine from rolling along.

Realizing that this was the last battle of the season the blue and white was determined to bring it to a flashy close by winning over the opponent and they did. The visitors were helpless before the terrific attack displayed by the Tubers, not only via the air route but also by tanning the line.

Bridgeville kicked off and on the very first play Frisk tossed a long pass to Neff for forty yards. A fifteen yard penalty on the blue and white forced them to try another pass and it was successful, this time Frisk heaved it to Sheeler for sixteen yards. Another fifteen yard penalty after the next play marred Ellwood's performance and when they attempted to pass Vidoni intercepted on his own ten yard line. These two penalties no doubt kept Ellwood from scoring at this point.

But the game was still young when Ellwood started a march down the field after forcing the opponent to punt. Condi, Sheeler and Frisk all hit the line to make a first down. Wilson put the finishing touches to the march by crossing the line on the next plunge. Neff failed to kick it over.

A strong comeback was staged over the visitors as they also scored in a very few minutes and in such a manner that Ellwood was swept completely off their feet. Clarke accepted the kick off and threw the Tubers off their course as he ran over to Kreiger and handed him the puckin and before this young man was stopped he had run almost fifty yards to bring the pigskin less than thirty yards from scoring distance. Clarke made a first down and Kreiger followed with seven yards and on the next try Mucci crossed the goal line. This tilt came to a deadlock as Clarke also failed to kick over for the extra point.

As the first session came to a close Ellwood had the ball on the opponent's goal line after the Tubers had made a long march with Frisk starting it off by ripping around the end for 29 yards. A pass from him to Neff netted twelve yards. Pander, Condi and Frisk all carried the pigskin to net two more first downs and the oval rested on the line as the quarter ended.

On the very first play of the second period Frisk crossed the line to break the deadlock score and Neff annexed the extra point by booting the oval over the bars. Bridgeville tightened up a little and several exchanges of punts followed and it was not until the closing last few minutes of this stanza that Ellwood again threatened to score when the ball was advanced within scoring distance by a 29 yard pass from Frisk to Pander. With the ball resting only a few yards from the goal Condi rammed the line twice and lacked only a few inches of crossing the white mark when the whistle blew for the end of the half. Coach Shuvaluk's defensive wall held the Ingle machine well at this point and prevented them from annexing any more points.

During the third period the blue and white scored twice. The first came when the visitors lost the ball on downs near the fifty yard line. Frisk, Condi and Pander alternated in carrying the ball up to the ten yard line where the oval was advanced five yards more because of Bridgeville being off side. Condi carried the pigskin over on the following play and Frisk kicked over the extra point to bring the score 20 to 6. Then another marker was annexed as Ellwood accepted a punt on their own forty five yard line and started to advance. At this time the Ingle machine began to demonstrate their aerial attack and it was very successful. Three passes, with Frisk on the firing line, Condi reeling the first for sixteen yards, then (Ellwood suffered a twenty five yard penalty) the second went to Condi again for 12 yards and then Pander for eighteen more. Condi then rammed the line for five yards and Pander put the finishing touches to the march by scoring on the next play. No extra point was chalked up as Frisk was forced to run with the ball and failed to make it.

This ended the 3rd session. This being the last game, and holding a good margin against the opponent, Ingle sent in a flock of pups during the last session. The period was still young when visitors got away with a pretty pass from Mucci to Moore which went over the goal line having netted over twenty yards on the heave. Mucci kicked the extra point to bring his mates total to 13 points. Moore's regular position is tackle but he was shifted to end on this play. This same lad was injured earlier in the game and performed in a flashy manner when he was injected into the fray again.

Before leaving the battle several of Ellwood's regulars started another passing campaign as Frisk tossed one to Neff for a first down, then to Neff again for twenty five yards and to Sheeler for about twelve. This last pass brought the ball within the ten yard line. Wilson and Vandell both hit the line for a little gain but Campbell tossed the pigskin to Zeiler on the next play to annex another touchdown. Both of these lads are subs. The former is exceptionally clever at heaving the pigskin. Ellwood kicked off and the contest came to a close a few minutes later after the Tubers had started up the field again with a twenty yard pass from Campbell to Hayden.

Frisk was the outstanding man of the contest with his neat heaving and ability to carry the ball for healthy gains. W. Pander, Condi and Sheeler all played well while Neff had the misfortune of hurting his leg on the opening play when he accepted a pass to net forty yards but performed in classy fashion although being handicapped by the injury. He did not play the entire game because of the injury. Vogt had not recovered from his injury last week and Cunningham did not see action for the same reason. Dick Wilson's playing was also good.

QUICKEST WAY TO KNOCK A COLD

Millions Say of This Proved Way
You Feel Like a New Person
Almost Before You Know It

If you want quick relief from a cold, go back to first principles and use something you know does the business—don't start "trying" a lot of fancy ideas or remedies. Even a "little" cold is too dangerous to take chances on.

Get Hill's Cascara Quinine. A scientific formula made to do ONE THING WELL: to knock a cold in a hurry, not to cure a hundred different things.

Take two tablets now. Then follow directions on box. Drink lots of water, too—that's all. Soon those mean, aching pains in head and body begin to go, the cold breaks up, poisons leave your system. Almost before you know it, you feel like a new person.

If it doesn't do that, your money back. Get a box now. You'll be surprised at the speed with which it works. Costs only a few cents.

Tubers To Lose Five Of Gridders

PROSPECTS LOOK GOOD NEXT FALL

(By Tony Pasta)

ELLWOOD CITY, Nov. 24—With Saturdays game Ellwood City High brought to a close a fairly good season as the records show five victories and only four defeats and they scored 123 points to 115 collected by the opponents.

At the beginning of the year prospects looked very poor as Coach Ingle and his assistants Lloyd and Ralston started to build a team with only one veteran and ten new men. It was a hard struggle but the blue and white eleven developed at such a rapid pace that they defeated some of their toughest foes. The Tubers won some very thrilling battles among which were the wins over this system by a 6-0 score, a last minute triumph over Monaca 9-7 and an 18-13 win over New Brighton. The worst defeat was suffered at the hands of Beaver Falls who swamped the locals by a 35-6 count. Ellwood played five games in the Beaver Valley league and lost three of them but all by a close score except the Tigers tilt.

Much credit must be given to Coach Ingle for producing an eleven of this calibre with green men. Ellwood had developed one of the finest passing machines that ever represented the local school and was a dangerous foe at all times. Their passing attack enabled them to win most of their tilts. Ingle had no doubt to contend with in as much as this was his first year as coach here and he was new to the district. Then too we must consider that he was not acquainted with the styles of playing of the opponents of this district. Many fans criticized him at the beginning of the season but it is quite evident that he was putting forth his best efforts and his machine did progress at a rapid pace.

Five of the E. C. H. S. warriors were the blue and white colors on the gridiron Saturday as they played for Ellwood High for the last time, due to the fact that they graduate this year. Cunningham, full-back and Sheeler, halfback will both be lost to the local eleven. The former was not able to take part against Bridgeville due to an injury last week. Mazant and Rossmann, guards, and Nye also have played their last game. Ellwood High will be sorry to see these boys finish their scholastic grid career but hope that they will have the luck of continuing in higher circles. For next season prospects look more than bright as six regulars remain to start to build up the 1931 machine. Vogt, Neff and Cavalier on ends, Frisk and Welsh on tackles, Frisk, Condi and Wilson in the backfield. Condi was not a regular at the beginning of the season but due to an injury to Sheeler he started in all the battles during the latter part of the year. Then too there was a number of promising subs such as Pander, Zeigler, E. McKim, T. McKim, Timblin and a few others.

Frisk was the leading scorer for the blue and white as he crossed the opponent's goal line seven times, kicked over three extra points and a field goal to make a grand total of 48 points. He is also one of the leading scorers in the Beaver Valley League as he ranks third. Neff also did well with three touchdowns and one extra point, while Condi almost equaled this record by getting three touchdowns. Sheeler, a first year player, was a real find. ## Missionary Body Puts On Pageant

Annual Praise Service In Presbyterian Church Featured With Pageant Sunday Night

ELLWOOD CITY, Nov. 24—The Women's Missionary Society of the First Presbyterian church sponsored the annual praise service Sunday evening in the church. A feature of the service was the pageant, which was put on by the society and directed by Mrs. Judd Turner. The name was "Missionary Artistic" and the theme was "The Good Samaritan" and the head nurse (Mrs. Aiken) who were in charge of a hospital in India. Several patients, native women, came to them and told of their dire need. The patients were portrayed by Mesdames Baker, Shields and Yahn. The doctor, immediately wrote to the doctor (Mrs. O. E. Bartel), who summoned four young women relatives who had been left legacies, and explained the situation to them. These young women, Mrs. Myron Gelbach, Mrs. Ray Wilson, Mrs. George Wilson and Mrs. Harry Harris, decided to subsume their money from their own selfish desires and add to the fund to help the people in India.

Another pleasant feature of the meeting was a duet number by Mrs. Adele Eggers-Furnis and Mrs. Edward Mackasek. Thursday morning at nine o'clock the union Thanksgiving service will be conducted in the church. Friday afternoon members of the mission study class will meet at the home of Mrs. Mervin Haines of South Ellwood Heights at two o'clock. Tonight members of the Young Women's class, taught by Rev. A. M. Stevenson, will leave the church at five o'clock on a hike and take their supper in the woods, weather permitting.

Some businesses think it's good business to boost prices just before a special holiday demand. Not A&P. Our policy is just the opposite. We have found that it's better business to give women what they want when they want it at the lowest price that is humanly possible. That is why, in A&P stores, you will find holiday goods at special prices in holiday seasons. That is why now, just before Thanksgiving, A&P stores offer for sale well fed, well bred, plump, juicy, mouth-watering turkeys at the lowest price that is economically possible. 13. George Rogers Clark—Clark Plans An Offensive

ENTRUSTED WITH THE DEFENSE OF KENTUCKY (1777), YOUNG MAJOR GEORGE ROGERS CLARK DECIDED UPON A DARING PLAN TO RELIEVE THE PRESSURE OF INDIAN RAIDS ON THE FRONTIER AND DRIVE THE BRITISH FROM THE NORTHWEST.

UNION HIGH DEFEATS GROVE CITY 7 TO 6

Powerful Unionites Very Impressive In Victory On Saturday

Coach Boyd's Union High Team Scales Heights Saturday At Grove City

Monico And Jaworski Give Union Victory—Captain Augustyn Is Big Star

Union High school football team went a notch higher in the scholastic grid realm on Saturday afternoon at Grove City when after four quarters of a gigantic battle that kept a fair sized crowd interested, scored a 7 to 6 victory over the strong Grove City High team. It was the final game for the Unionites and they ended their fine schedule this year in a blaze of glory.

Coach David Morgan Boyd took his Union team to Grove City to play the underdogs, in fact, Union had hopes of holding the Groves even at least, or allowing but one touchdown against them, they never did dream of victory. The fact that Grove City was a class A school and rated highly in Mercer county kind of awed the Boyd machine.

Grove City Outplayed

Not long after the game got under way the fans were ready to realize that Union High of New Castle intended to battle the Mercer county boys inch for inch. Union played superior ball throughout the game. They never faltered. Grove City outplayed the locals, but the Union lads kept fighting and were determined not to be outplayed, and they were not. Coach Hartman had his strongest Grove City team on the field, but they were not equal to the task of stopping the Unionites.

In the first half of the game the Union team outplayed the Groves making eight first downs to two for Grove City. The Union team had the ball within the shadow of the Grove City goal line several times but lacked the punch to put the ball over. In the last few minutes of the second quarter it looked like a Union touchdown, the locals had the ball on the 8-yard line, and then the unlucky break, a fifteen yard penalty for holding.

Groves Score On Pass

Grove City scored first, getting their touchdown in the third quarter. Grove City kicked off to Union. Zaremba getting the ball and being downed on the Union 25-yard line. Union is forced to punt. Grove City gets the ball on their own 40-yard line. A steady march down the field put Grove City in scoring position, after McCoy on a trick pass made a first down. Union held for downs and took the ball on their own 25-yard line after a pass had failed for Grove City. Captain Augustyn fumbled and Grove City recovered on the 28-yard line. Bashline went around end for eight yards to the 20-yard line. Grove City was desperate to score, and they planned a pass that was too very successful, with Milner throwing the ball to Moore and catching the Union team asleep, not a Union man was near him. He easily scored his touchdown. The try for extra-point was blocked by Davis of Union. It was a placement. The third quarter ended just as the placement kick was blocked.

Monico Talled: Union took the Grove City kickoff and made two first downs in a row, then Union was held for downs and forced to punt. Grove City took the ball on their own 35-yard line. Bashline of Grove City fumbled and Davis recovered for Union on the 35-yard line.

Captain Augustyn went around end for a gain of 15 yards. Jaworski and Monico made another first-down for Union. Augustyn went to the 2-yard stripe before being hauled down. Monico went through center for the touchdown. Jaworski plunged the ball over for the extra point that gave Union the much desired victory.

Union kicked off to Grove City, but Grove City failed to gain and kicked to Union. Monico took the kick and returned it to the 45-yard line. Augustyn went around end for 15 yards, and Jaworski fought his way through center for 10 more yards. A pass from Monico to Augustyn was good for 18 more yards with barely a minute of the game left to play. Union had the ball on the Grove City 2-yard line when the game ended.

Augustyn Is Star Captain Augustyn playing his final game for Union gave a perfect account of himself in leading the team man in the backfield all afternoon, carrying the ball, running interference, and backing up the line, and receiving passes.

Six of the Union team played their final game Saturday—Captain Augustyn, Zaremba, Monico, Stockman, Pietrowitz and Campbell. They will be sorely missed next year when Coach Boyd forms his Union High squad.

THE INSIDE DOPE ON HOLLYWOOD

Harvard Beats Yale; Other Grid Upsets

Down in the Broad A belt where the Lodges speak only to Cabots and all that sort of thing, the football season is a success. What though dear old Harvard did have an indifferent season, what though some of the more vulgar teams did hang a shanty on their athletic eye, it still remains a fact that Harvard defeated Yale in Saturday's jousting, 13-0, all is forgiven for what went before.

On paper, Harvard had no more license to beat Yale than it would have Princeton apologize for getting rough, but there it is, custom-made, 13-0 and this in spite of Albie Booth who probably tossed his last chance to make the All-American out the dormer window.

Some More Upsets Nor was this classic the only upset of the day. Notre Dame had plenty of luck riding with her to defeat Northwestern 14-0, and there is more than a suspicion that perhaps they were a little premature in giving Joe Savoldi the gate.

As for Indiana's defeat of Purdue 7-6, try and explain that one yourself, it's by us. Carnegie Tech also figured in a spectacular bit of work defeating Temple 32-13, for there were plenty who thought the Scotchmen were in for another licking.

In the Tri-State District Geneva copper riveted the district championship by trouncing Allegheny 27-7. Wash-Jeff nosed out a 7-6 win over West Virginia, and Westminster finished the season by taking Bethany 14-0. Duquesne defeated West Virginia Wesleyan 12-7, but the defeat by Geneva frosted the Dukes' season.

Fordham laced Bucknell 12-0. Rutgers went back to dying for the dear old school, losing to New York U. 33-0. Lafayette defeated Lehigh 16-5 and Ohio State tramped the Illinois 12-9. Michigan did the expected in defeating Chicago 16-0, and thus went into a joint ownership of the Big Ten title with Northwestern. Wisconsin proved to be more than just a good team against Minnesota winning 14-0, and Iowa retrieved a terrible season by defeating Nebraska 12-7. Southern Methodist curried Rice University 33-0, and Stanford had a field day against the University of California, 41-0.

Anchor A-Weigh Navy anchored one touchdown against Maryland but failed to make the extra point. Duke defeated Wake Forest 13-0. Vanderbilt walked away from Auburn 27-0, and South Carolina defeated North Carolina State 19-0. Many of the big teams didn't play Saturday, saving their energy for the grand finale on Thanksgiving Day, but the champions of the various sections are in the bag.

Unless miracles happen, and they sometimes do on football fields the season will be over. After ten futile efforts to knock a golf ball through a hollow log, you can understand why New Yorkers shot the owner of a runt course—The Minneapolis Star.

New Castle-Union Game Starts Early

Contest On Thanksgiving Day Here To Get Underway at 2:15 O'Clock

Turtle Creek Comes Here Undeclared; New Castle Prepared For Final Contest

According to announcement from Faculty Manager Ralph H. Gardner of the Senior High school this morning, the New Castle-Turtle Creek Union football game on Thanksgiving Day at Taggart Field, will start at 2:15 o'clock instead of 2:30.

The change was necessary due to the fact that it gets dark early. Gardner is planning to take care of a big crowd to watch the two schoolboys close the 1930 grid season.

Turtle Creek is bringing its band here on Turkey Day to add more interest to the contest. The New Castle band along with the visitors band will furnish the music at the start of the game, during the game, and at the half. A special train to carry a big delegation of Turtle Creek rooters has been arranged.

Both New Castle and Turtle Creek continue training this afternoon following the week-end vacation. The locals will practice on Tuesday and Wednesday also. Turtle Creek comes here with seven victories, two ties and no defeats.

HERE AND THERE IN SPORTS' LAND

The east today can boast of no one college football team neither beaten nor tied as the last to surrender was Western Maryland which could do no better than play a tie with Albright. With Western Maryland's fall Army went into the eastern lead with eight victories and one tie, so far.

With Army just a few days away from a Notre Dame clash, Dartmouth and Western Maryland are in a position to deadlock the race, with seven victories and one tie. All the other eastern teams have suffered at least one defeat.

Colgate holds the race in total points, having amassed 349. Dartmouth is second with 294 and Cornell third with 260.

After Albright had played a tie with Western Maryland, Coach Alvin Julian of Albright resigned, stating he had received offers to coach other colleges.

The teams which remain unbeaten this year are: Mid-west, Notre Dame; south Alabama, and far west Utah and Washington State.

Buck McTiernan and Sergeant Sammy Baker clash again in a 10-round bout tonight at Pittsburgh.

Ray Eberle will get away tonight as boxing promoter at Rochester, Pa. He has two eight and also two six-round bouts on the card.

Cagle was hurt in the first period but returned to the game in the final quarter and helped Benny Friedman win the game.

Westminster Closes Season With Victory Over Bethany Saturday At West Virginia

(Special To The News)

BETHANY, W. Va., Nov. 24.—An inspired Westminster College team, after one listless half, pounded its way to a 14-0 victory over Bethany College here Saturday in the closing game of the season for both teams.

Ben Haldy, Turtle Creek, closed his grid career for the Titans by scoring one touchdown; while Alan Harper, freshman back, tallied the other touchdown. James Perrin, fullback, kicked both extra points from placement with Glenn Shaffer holding the ball.

The first half started in a listless fashion, with both teams playing ragged ball. Ketterer, Titan left half, got away for a 22-yard run early in the first period as the Titans started a three first down march, but aside from this flurrying there was little action in the starting quarter. In the second quarter Bethany's only threat at a score carried the ball to the Titan 20 where Bethany fumbled. The ball was recovered by Westminster on the 18.

From this point, Haldy punted 80 yards, a beautiful spiral which cut out of bounds on the Bethany 10. This mighty boot placed the Titans in Bethany territory again, and the Blue and White remained there for the greater part of the contest.

The start of the second half saw the Titans, inspired by a talk between halves by Coach Beede, start chalking up 12 first downs with a mixture of forwards and line plays. Near the middle of the quarter with the ball on the Bethany one-yard line, Perrin fumbled and Harper picked up the ball and stepped over the line for a touchdown. Perrin kicked the extra point from placement.

Plays leading up to this score were: The Titans on the first play took the ball on the end-around for 21 yards. Cebula pained 20 on a pass from Shaffer. Tweedy raced 37 yards through the whole Bethany team for a touchdown, but he was called back by the referee who claimed he stepped out of bounds on the 15-yard line. Cebula then recovered a fumble for a 14-yard gain, taking the ball to the one-yard line.

Westminster soon took the ball after a Bethany punt following the kickoff, and Haldy and Tweedy and Cebula, with passes from Shaffer figuring largely, made five first downs. As the fourth period started, the Titans were on their way for another score. Haldy ripped off consistent gains through the line, then Tweedy got away on the end-around and carried the ball to the Bison 15. From here, Shaffer and Haldy carried the ball to the six, and Haldy took it over for the second score. Perrin converted with a placement kick.

Westminster, with 18 first downs run up in the second half had a total of 21 first downs to three for Bethany. The Bisons were not able to register a first down in the second half. Westminster completed six out of 16 forward passes for a gain of 114 yards, while Bethany completed one out of seven passes for a gain of seven yards.

Westminster fumbled seven times, but six fumbles were recovered by the Titans and all for yardage gains, while Bethany fumbled four times. Both teams were penalized 55 yards, mostly for incomplete passes and for off-side play.

For the Titans, Shaffer at quarter, Armour at tackle, Haldy at half-back, Tweedy at end, and Boone at center were stars, although the

Keystone Eleven Defeats Pearsons

Keystone football eleven again came through victorious on Saturday afternoon at Taggart field by defeating the Pearson team by a 6-0 score.

For three quarters the game was even until the final chapter when the alertness of Mike Perrett spoiled defeat for the Pearson eleven. During a scrimmage the ball bounded out of one of the Pearson players' arm as Perrett caught the fumble and raced 60 yards for the lone score. For the Keystone the playing of Campbell, Sontag, Perrett and Sheldon featured while Lombardo, Coppel and Gazil were the best for the losers.

Ten High Gridders To Play Last Game For School Thursday

When New Castle high takes the field against Turtle Creek Union on Thanksgiving Day at Tanager Field, fans will see ten local gridders playing their last game as members of the local high eleven. Out of this number New Castle loses four varsity men and one griddier who only recently made the first team.

Captain Regis McAuley, who for the past three years has made an enviable name for himself on the gridiron, will be playing his final game. He graduates in June. McAuley came to the local school from Cathedral Latin High in Cleveland in 1928. Ever since coming here the red headed one has achieved quite a name for himself in Western Pennsylvania schoolboy circles. In losing McAuley New Castle loses one of the best gridders ever to wear a red and black uniform.

The other three gridders who will be lost to the local eleven next year are Dick Thomas, fullback, Robert Hoose, center, and Robert Jameson, end. The above three mentioned are varsity men. Thomas played halfback earlier in the season but was shifted to fullback. Since playing that post he has proven to be a tower of strength. Hoose was a backfield man last season but was turned into a center for this season. Jameson will be lost through graduation as will Thomas and Hoose. Luther Rowe who only recently was placed on the varsity eleven also graduates this year. The remainder of the gridders who leave are members of the reserves.

The are: Louis Greensburg, John Grommes, David Harris, Steve Janovick, and LeRoy Turk.

Ohio State, possessing the only hold-over All-American in the Big Ten, Mr. Wesley Fesler, loses that star line-backer, Northwestern must do without the great Hank Bruder as well as Lee Hanley and Bill Griffin. Purdue will mourn

Seek Big Fund For Waterways

Appropriation Of $100,000,000 To Be Asked Of Government

By WILLIAM S. NEAL

International News Service Staff

WASHINGTON, Nov. 24.—A campaign will be launched with the convening of Congress to raise rivers and harbors appropriations to $100,000,000 a year, thus launching the highest internal waterway expansion program in the history of the nation, it was learned today.

The plan will be urged by western river improvements associations, anxious to complete a vast network of river transportation systems, and is expected to have the endorsement of the House rivers and harbors committee.

The effort may bring a showdown between backers of the internal waterway system and the railroads, who already have taken the offensive against the policy.

Representative Hudson (R) of Michigan, announced he would sponsor a plan which calls for expenditure of $100,000,000 a year for five years, by making available a half billion dollars to be drawn upon as needed to complete the present five-year program.

The Mississippi Valley Association announces its plan for increased appropriations in its bulletin as follows:

"These waterway improvements are desperately needed now, today, to aid faltering business. There are hundreds of idle men whose families face privation and undernourishment, who could be put to work to complete the river channel system."

Blames Husbands For Broken Homes

In-Laws Also Create Discord, Probation Officer At Norristown Finds

(International News Service) NORRISTOWN, Pa., Nov. 24.—Husbands and homes are broken up, according to the records of Probation Officer T. H. Yeakle here.

An inspection of the records shows that in virtually every case where couples separated and homes are left, the male of the couple is blamed for the affair. "In-laws" also come in for a share of the blame for separations, the records show, but run well behind the husbands who neglect their families. Other causes of marital unhappiness are incompatibility and cruelty.

"Too many parties, resulting in neglect of his family, by the husband is the chief cause of wedding woes," Yeakle said. His records also reveal that only about ten per cent of couples that separate are ever reconciled.

(International News Service) DETROIT, Nov. 24.—Two men were killed here today when a Ford Company experimental airplane crashed 800 feet in the air and crashed to the ground, pinning the two occupants in the flaming wreckage.

The dead are Myron Zeller, the pilot, and Carl Wenzel, 30, the mechanic.

The ship took off from the Ford Airport about 10 o'clock this morning and cruised in that vicinity for more than two and a half hours when two of its three motors caught fire. Zeller stayed at the controls and attempted to land the plane, but was stricken from all three motors when it neared the ground and as it wheels touched ground, the craft turned over. The gasoline tanks exploded and the pilot and mechanic were burned to death. The debris burned for more than an hour.

Eighty-five members were enrolled by the Lawrence County Chapter, American Red Cross, through the booths which were established in three local stores, on Friday and Saturday of the past two weeks.

The response this year has been most generous, both from the city and rural districts, many heeding the appeal for funds.

Never in the history of the organization has there been such a need for funds as at the present time. Workers in the rural districts of the county are beginning to send in their reports, showing that they have been working hard in the interests of the local chapter, and the final report is expected to be an exceptionally good one.

The roll call will be brought to a close on Thursday, Thanksgiving Day, and all those expecting to subscribe are asked to do so prior to that time, so the campaign may be ended.

Wilson Bieus, 1008 Croton avenue, reported Saturday evening, that he was enroute west on Croton avenue, at Haus street, when a small boy, Alfred Giancotti, aged 5, 831 Croton avenue, in running from the south side to the north side of Croton avenue, ran into the side of Mr. Brews' car and was knocked to the ground. He was taken to the New Castle hospital, where on first examination it was feared that he might have sustained serious injuries. Today at the hospital it was stated that the injuries of the boy were not as serious as at first thought and he had been able to return to his home.

C. R. Lutz, 221 West Sheridan avenue, had his car stolen Saturday while parked on South Mill street and reported the loss of the same to the police. It was found later at the top of the hill near the Weinshenken green house, south of the city.

Lawrence Richey, West Pittsburgh, also reported Saturday to the police that his machine had been stolen from Jefferson street, near the public square. Pittsburgh authorities reported the recovery of the car in that city on Sunday.

(International News Service) NORRISTOWN, Pa., Nov. 24.—Husbands and homes are broken up, according to the records of Probation Officer T. H. Yeakle here.

An inspection of the records shows that in virtually every case where couples separated and homes are left, the male of the couple is blamed for the affair. "In-laws" also come in for a share of the blame for separations, the records show, but run well behind the husbands who neglect their families. Other causes of marital unhappiness are incompatibility and cruelty.

"Too many parties, resulting in neglect of his family, by the husband is the chief cause of wedding woes," Yeakle said. His records also reveal that only about ten per cent of couples that separate are ever reconciled.

tice by an order handed down by the Supreme Court today. It was charged that Wasson had misappropriated large sums of a client to his own use.

Wasson's disbarment, and the disbarment of Attorney George H. Calvert, whose case has not yet been heard, was asked in a petition filed on November 8 of last year by Martha K. and Blanche M. Hibbert, sisters of Mrs. Eleanor H. Davidson.

The sisters charged gross mismanagement of Mrs. Davidson's estate, valued at more than $3,000,000,
which Wasson and Calvert had been appointed to administer for Mrs.
Davidson who was adjudged mentally incompetent to handle her affairs.

Following a hearing which Wasson was given before a committee of the board of governance of the Pennsylvania bar, the committee reported a recommendation that Wasson be disbarred. There was one dissenting opinion, Thomas C. Hare, of Altoona, stating that the punishment to be meted out should be less than disbarment.

Nine Being Held In Slaying Case

Reveal Name Of Man Being Hunted In Connection With Slaying At Avella, Pa.

(International News Service)
WASHINGTON, Pa., Nov. 24.—
Washington county police and West Virginia authorities today revealed that Herbert Conrad, 30, of Keyser, W. Va., is being sought as the slayer of Thomas Peters, Pittsburgh employment agency representative, who was shot and killed in a shack at Avella, near here, last week.

Nine persons, including three young women, are being held in the county jail in connection with the case. Police believe that Conrad rented the shanty last month and had been using it as a speakery.

A drinking party was said to have preceded the killing of Peters.

ROAMING

With Richards

Some News, Some Views, But Mostly Just Observations
Of Interesting Things Around New Castle

Sunday afternoon was built for riding. The calendar may have said it was November 23, but the weather said it was September, and the highways looked to be two months back of the calendar. For some weeks
I've had a yen to see that swamp the state highway department is trying to fill, up beyond Sheakley-ville and if you haven't seen it, it is worth the ride.

It is a fight of man against Nature, and thus far Nature has taken every round. Whether man can eventually win is something the highway engineers would like to know for a lot of dirt has been sunk in there in an effort to provide a heavy enough base for a concrete highway.

The swamp is located just east of the little village of Custards. The highway department wanted an airline highway from Mercer to a point near Meadville and thought the swamp could be licked with a little filling. Things seemed to be progressing nicely until one afternoon a section of the road and a truck dropped out of sight and where the road was, a lake is.

Since then there has been a parade of trucks with dirt in and out of the swamp and dropping the dirt in is like pouring it down a sewer.
As the heavy dirt drops down, the muck and vegetable matter is pushed out and up and the area around the fill looks as though a huge plow had torn it up, or a few shells had been dropped there.

It isn't dirt that is being shoved out and up. It is a vegetable deposit that left for a few centuries longer would probably be peat but at present is loose and light. What happens can be illustrated this way:
Take a bowl of breakfast food, something like cream of wheat, and pour a spoonful of sand into it. The sand will drop to the bottom of the bowl and if you keep pouring sand into the middle, the cream of wheat will bulge up over the sides.

Eventually you will get enough sand into the bowl that it will form a pile down to the bottom and eventually the highway department will get enough dirt into the muck to form a sound base for a road.

But in the meantime, the filling is going on and the dirt is piling up from a bottom 90 feet down.

Centuries ago Conneaut Lake was over what is now the swamp. Today the lake is eight miles away but the soft swamp land extends from the water edge over to the site of the fill. Some of the engineers have figured that the swamp is in a valley with the center about 90 feet deep. The fill then is merely a bridge of dirt from one bank of the valley to the other. Instead of being filled with water the valley is filled with this rich black vegetable deposit that looks as though it would grow vegetables without half trying.

There is another theory that where the swamp is was once a small lake itself, gouged out by the glacier when it passed through. The water in the lake dried up, and the ages have deposited leaves, branches and weeds ever since.

Another theory is that the whole area up around there was one vast body of water at one time and that the earth's settling has left only Conneaut Lake as the one body of water. This seems to be logical for you can find swampland from Sheakleyville and Hartstown on up to the lake and on out to the Ohio line.

To fully appreciate this peculiar condition, one should take a geologist along and have him examine the black deposit that is being forced up. A story of the ages could be reconstructed if such a man could get a cross section of that deposit down to the solid bed.

When the Perry highway is finally done, this swamp fill is on the Perry highway, and the piece between New Wilmington and Mercer is concreted (if ever) it won't be a trick to get into Erie from here in a hurry. The Perry will be an airline from Pittsburgh to the lake and will cut out many miles that now have to be travelled.

ACID STOMACH

THE FRANK FACTS ABOUT IT

Lack of Knowledge Causing Much Needless Suffering

You doubtless know that acid stomach is the common cause of indigestion, heartburn, gas pains, dizzy headaches, listlessness, etc. But do you realize that through faulty attempts to secure relief many of us are aggravating instead of correcting the trouble?

Medical authorities offer this explanation. Your stomach secretes gastric juices. These juices are normally acid. They must contain a certain amount of hydrochloric acid in order to digest your food.

At times, however, food ferments in the stomach. This causes excess acids—harmful ones. You begin to feel miserable. So you seek relief and all too often cause more harm.
For ordinary remedies go too far.
They not only neutralize the harmful excess acids, but they also neutralize the important acid of the gastric juices. The result—sub-acidity—too little acid. Digestion stops and again we suffer.

called by Judge Nelson McVicar in federal court as he read the trial list for the November term of criminal

Mrs. Hess was to be tried on an immorality charge brought against pared against the physician by government operatives. He was represented in court by Attorney Samuel L. Clark of New Castle.

turned here on a bench warrant from Atlanta penitentiary to plead guilty to a forgery indictment was not present when the list was called and "as not represented by counsel"
The former teller was convicted on a previous count of forgery for which he was sentenced to Atlanta penitentiary. At his own request he was being brought here to plead guilty to the other indictment for which he was not tried.

Juries for the three federal courts here were being selected in the early morning session and trials were expected to begin before court adjourned after the noon session.

Judges F. P. Schoonmaker, Nelson McVicar and R. M. Gibson were scheduled to handle all federal crim-
